Snow graces vigil

Compassion for Newtown victims expressed despite raging snowstorm

BY DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - Despite the raging winds and falling snow present on the evening of December 29th, close to one hundred people came out to the town common to show their solidarity and compassion for the victims of the Newtown, Connecticut school shooting.

The candles burned in remembrance, despite the snowflakes that cascaded all around them, as people hurried over to purchase them. The candles were no mere light instruments—on each of them a small plastic teddy bear head was placed, a symbol of the innocence lost in the school shooting. As the crowd gathered around the gazebo, many children and young people gathered on the stage, and Stacie Murphy, the event organizer, took a megaphone and began to address the crowd.

Stacie first thanked everyone for having come out despite the weather, and then explained that children would be reading the name and age of one of the fallen children from Connecticut, symbolically rep-

Despite delays, appeals...

Hull declares 2013 'the year of WHS'

BY JON BISHOP
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON—2013 is the year of the high school.

Town Manager Jeff Hull told the Crier that the new facility will be Wilmington's primary focus in the upcoming year.

Officials hope to award contracts and begin work, but they still face a legal fight based on environmental concerns. According to Hull, Gerald O'Reilly filed an appeal with the Superior Court on November 16. Wilmington received a summons on December 6.

O'Reilly, along with a group of residents named the Ten Resident Group, have filed several appeals to the project since Wilmington's Conservation Commission first issued its Order of Conditions, or environmental requirements that, if met, meant the project could move forward in the town.

The series of appeals that followed led to the DEP's involvement that, with each appeal, consistently generated results in the town's favor.

The decision O'Reilly is appealing was a recommended by DEP Presiding Officer Timothy Jones, who cited in his report that the appellants, O'Reilly included, did not provide sufficient evidence to support their claims.

Wilmington will have to decide whether to accept bids, which are due on January 18, or hold off on any work until the appeals are resolved. They will meet with legal counsel, as well as various officials, and, in a month, make a final decision.

Resolutions 2013

WILMINGTON - It's that time of year again for New Year's resolutions. At the Town Crier we have writers vowing to get in shape, editors vowing to run faster 5Ks, and a few that have eschewed the notion of resolutions entirely. Our intrepid photographer Maureen Lamoureux and News Editor Jayne Miller accosted unsuspecting shoppers in both Tewksbury and Wilmington for a lighthearted look at their resolutions this year. Thanks to those that participated!

Patrick Xavier, 9, in grade 4 at the North Intermediate School this year wants to learn to write in cursive and resolves to read more books. His sister, Emma, 6, in Kindergarten at the Wildwood School, resolved to find ways to "help people this year."

Jim Banda of Wilmington wishes everyone a happy and healthy new year for 2013.

Betsy Woods McGuire gave us one of our favorite resolutions with her plan to "Come to terms with all my pent up hostility."

Janice McKenna said she wants to "stay healthy" in 2013.

Local dentist Dr. Greg Andre says that this year his goal is to "be the best boss possible."

1903 blast killed 22, injured 70

BY LARZ F. NEILSON

TEWKSBURY - There has never been a worse disaster in Tewksbury than the explosion of two magazines of a munitions company, the United States Cartridge Co. On July 29, 1903, a massive explosion killed 22 persons, injured 70, and leveled or damaged some 70 houses in Riverside Park, near the Concord River.

Due to the explosive nature of the materials involved, the powder magazines were apart from the factory, about a mile away in Lowell. They were near Woburn Street in Tewksbury, in an area known as Wigginsville, which Lowell annexed in 1906.

On the morning of the explosion, a work crew was sent to one of the magazines with three teams, large wagons, to unload powder in preparation for replacing the floor of the building.

According to a newspaper report, the foreman, Clarendon Goodwin, noticed a leak in a can of nitroglycerine. He picked up a crock of what he thought was water, and poured it on the spilled material. But it was not water — it was nitric acid. The floor began to smoke.

Goodwin and an assistant immediately fled the magazine, but had scarcely gone ten feet when the first explosion occurred. That explosion set off another one, presumably in the wagons. In turn, a much larger explosion took place, all in a matter of seconds.

The explosion wiped out an entire neighborhood and set the splintered remains afire. Seven men on the scene were blown apart. Ironically, Goodwin and his assistant, Amadee Boulanger, survived. Several of the casualties were people in the houses that were destroyed. The motorman on a passing streetcar was fatally hit by debris. And four boys at the Concord River, some 200 yards away, were also killed.

The blast demolished everything in an area of about three acres. It shattered windows, as far away as Haverhill, and was felt in Exeter, N.H.

The area was thrown into a panic, and authorities were pressed to maintain order. Four companies of state militia were called out.

Police wagons and various other wagons were pressed into service to assist ambulances. With a great many houses set afire, many people were trapped. Scores of men plunged into the flaming debris in efforts to reach the injured. Many of the injured were taken to St. John's Hospital. Some of the injured later died.

The Tewksbury selectmen took charge of the relief efforts. Chairman Albert Blaisdell managed the general oversight. Joel Phelps was in charge of food distribution, and Robert Catherwood managed scores of volunteers.

The company at the time was owned by Paul Butler and Blanche Butler Ames. The firm was founded by their father, Benjamin F. Butler, a Civil War general. He established the firm in 1869 while serving in Congress, and secured government contracts for the production of munitions. Gen. Butler died in 1893, a decade before the explosion.

An inquiry in the Lowell Police Court held the owners responsible, along with Goodwin. The judge also cited the Tewksbury selectmen for not exercising greater care in allowing the magazines.

Blanche Butler Ames was the wife of Gen. Adelbert Ames of Tewksbury. Their son, Butler Ames, later became president of United States Cartridge in 1913. Like his father, Butler Ames was a West Point graduate. He served as a lieutenant colonel in the Spanish American war and was later elected to Congress. He lived on North Street in Tewksbury.

During World War I, British officials visited Lowell and urged the firm to increase production.

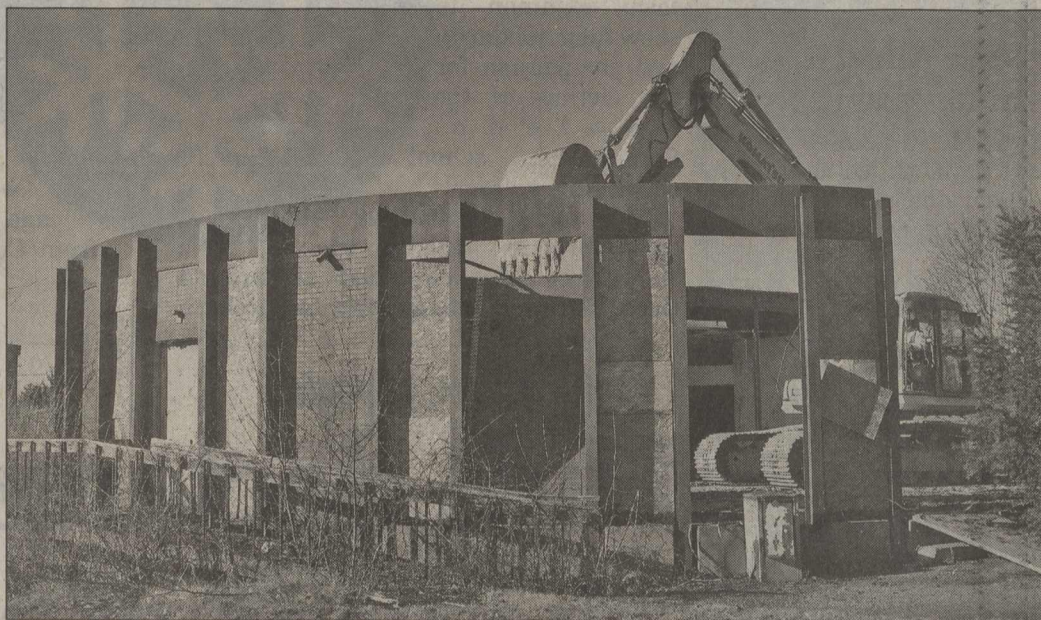

National Lead Co. acquired a partial interest in the firm, and it was eventually sold to the Winchester Arms Co. The plant was closed in 1926.

The United States Cartridge Co. factory was located on Lawrence Street in Lowell. The building was later occupied by the Offset Printing Co., where the Town Crier was printed for about 20 years, from 1955 to 1976. Part of the building is still standing, although some of it was destroyed by fire in 1976.

Jane McGrath has been a "Leo Fan" for a long time. She was on hand to wish Leo Gittzus a happy 95th birthday as members of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club and friends surprised him at "The Manor" aka Windsor Place. Gittzus is the final charter member of the Kiwanis Club and still makes most of the weekly meetings at Rocco's. Gittzus was a spry 50 year-old when the club began in 1967.

Pave paradise and put up a gas station...?

WOBURN - Anyone who has lived in the area awhile will remember standing in line at this building off Montvale Avenue in Woburn as it served as the Registry of Motor Vehicles local office for license tests, new licenses and license renewals. The building was recently demolished as owners of the lot are making way for a new Prime Gas Station and corporate offices. The Woburn City Council had denied the request but it was over turned in court. A Krispy Kreme location was originally proposed for the site, but with the firm struggling at the time, plans never went through. The registry moved to Reading for a number of years before moving into its current location in Wilmington.

Resolutions for Congress

Christmas is over, the fat goose got eaten, and now its time to tackle the dreaded RESOLUTIONS. New Year's, with all its drunken hoopla and frantic calendar switching, allows each and every one of us an opportunity for a new slate (or, slightly used slate, depending on your outlook). Now is the time to vow to change your ways, whatever they be.

For real resolution success one must do three things:

1. Actually make a resolution - writing it down helps.
2. Tell people about it, then at the very least you'll be embarrassed into keeping it (unhealthy maybe, but helpful).
3. Set goals to reach your target - these can be real or imagined; whatever helps.

Do a Google search on 'New Year's Resolutions' and you'll get over 309 million hits. 309 MILLION websites referring to the annual act of trying to outsmart yourself. The website eHow has a five step list of how to make resolutions. One website links the practice of making New Year's resolutions to the Babylonians about 4000 years ago. Resolutions topping the ancient Babylonian's lists: returning borrowed farm equipment.

Yes, there are billions of kinds of resolutions to make and thousands of years of humanity's experience to help you resolve. Top resolutions, which come as no surprise, include lose weight, stop smoking, get fit, quit drinking, get out of debt, and get an oil change.

I've read erudite expositions on why resolutions just bind us closer to failure or that resolutions should be smaller attainable steps of an overall goal. Perhaps. Mainly I think resolutions should put the FUN in dysFUNCTIONal, so, this year, I'm presenting the TOP THREE RESOLUTIONS OF THE FEDERAL Government (because, if you can't make fun of yourself, make fun of Congress).

Congressional Resolution Number 1:

BRING YOUR HEAD OUT INTO THE LIGHT OF DAY.

No one likes to be told to decranium their posterior, but then again, this is Congress. One Congress is headed out, another one coming in, with few real changes in personnel with that exception of all the centrist Senators left. Snow, Lugar, Brown all either lost their elections or chose not to run. Congress must start working together and stop trying to score points for their extreme base members on either end of the political spectrum.

Congressional Resolution 2:

STOP CLIFF DWELLING

While on one of those extended vacations no one in the real world enjoys, do your homework and come back to Washington prepared to solve some real problems. Constantly kicking the can down the road, rather than engaging in vigorous debate and offering actual solutions, does nothing for this country, constituents, or congressional poll numbers. Congress should also try doing some arithmetic as well and balance spending and cutting measures so that, wait for it, we can achieve that oh-so-rarely seen "balanced budget."

Congressional Resolution 3:

DON'T RUN FOR RE-ELECTION.

The U.S. electorate is exceedingly unimpressed with Capitol Hill, a dysfunctional group of do-nothings if ever there was one.

If these elected folks cannot get anything done, really, they have no business running for re-election. If they cannot do the job, lets put some people in there who are interested in solving problems and won't require super expensive campaigns just to get elected.

As we begin 2013, one cliff behind us and another before us, I wish everyone a year full of prosperity, success, health, happiness, a five pound weight loss, an oil change, and returned farm equipment. With this Congress, we're going to need it.

Moving Forward

By SCOTT J. MULLOWNEY
Staff Columnist

Last week, while I was returning yet another overdue book to the library, the librarian casually asked me if I had any predictions for the new year.

Her words caught me by surprise. I have been so focused on my hectic day-to-day schedule I haven't given the future much thought (and truth be told I was still trying to figure out why I had a 75¢ overdue fee).

The librarian saw me struggling with my thoughts and she added, "I hope this year's outlook is a positive one."

"Yes," I said. "I'm feeling pretty good about the upcoming year." And after verbalizing my words, I believed them.

Now that 2013 is here, I'm ready to move forward. I'm happy to leave 2012 behind, along with all the excess baggage that came with it. It won't be difficult to say goodbye to a year full of skyrocketing highs and plummeting lows. And if our country plunges head first over the looming fiscal cliff, I won't be afraid. Sometimes things have to hit rock bottom before they can turn around. There's nowhere to go but up. (I say that with my fingers crossed.)

The sluggish economy has been a challenge for everyone. Rising prices combined with shrinking paychecks have become the norm. Navigating the recession is no easy task. I've become so adept at juggling my bills, I'm thinking of auditioning for America's Got Talent so I can share this act with the public. It would be funny if it wasn't so scary.

Starting today, I'm entering the year 2013 without looking back. The upcoming year is a blank slate waiting for me to leave my mark on it. I've got lots to look forward to.

My oldest son is preparing for his wedding. As the father of the groom, I'm able to sit back and enjoy the excitement planning a wedding brings. I get to nod my head and agree with the parts of the celebration I approve of and I get to bite my tongue at the things I don't like (most times). The pre-wedding excitement is going to build as the year progresses. Planning an event like this makes time fly even faster than usual. The key is finding a way to enjoy the anticipation without succumbing to the pressure. Easy for me to say.

Speaking of pressure, my youngest son spent the last month on pins and needles waiting to find out if he would be accepted to the college of his choice. He was relieved to receive his acceptance letter from The Berklee School of Music in Boston. He is graduating high school this year (another momentous event) and he'll be attending Berklee in September. My son is a talented jazz guitarist who has worked his entire life to achieve this goal. Needless to say, my family is elated. My son is living proof that hard work and unwavering determination pay off in the end.

There are more positive things on the horizon for the upcoming year involving travel plans and business ventures. Hopefully, health issues will be few and far between. I've reached a certain age where some things are inevitable, but I'm working on keeping fit and feeling young (not always an easy task).

Despite the fact I work in an obsolete industry that appears to be reaching its natural end, I still have hope for the future. When one door closes, another door opens. And if the doors are locked, make a window of opportunity for yourself.

My new motto for 2013 comes from Berklee's School of Music's Latin slogan emblazoned on my son's favorite new sweatshirt. "Esse quam videri" which means "To be, rather than to seem." I'm going to adopt these positive words to live by in the year ahead.

Bring it on, 2013. I'm ready for anything.

Argo and the Roots of U.S.-Iran Tensions

Argo illustrates the power of movies about past traumas but Americans need to dig deeper to understand why relations with Iran remain strained today.

The box-office hit Argo brings back long-faded memories of the Iran hostage crisis for many Americans.

News in November 1979 that U.S. diplomats had been taken hostage in Tehran shocked the United States. Students stormed the U.S. embassy, blindfolding 52 Americans and threatening them at gunpoint.

The hostages, held captive for 444 days, immediately became the nation's top news story and dogged President Jimmy Carter's unsuccessful re-election campaign.

Argo traces the less-familiar story of the six mostly junior diplomats who went into hiding after the embassy was invaded. Director Ben Affleck also plays Antonio "Tony" Mendez, a CIA agent who has what he calls "the best bad idea" for spirited the six to safety. Mendez travels to Iran in the guise of a Canadian film producer scouting out sites for a science fiction blockbuster. The six stranded Americans escape by posing as members of the crew. Yes, the ploy sounds ridiculous, but this thriller is based on a true story first described in Wired Magazine and Oscar-watchers expect it to amass many Academy Award nominations.

Under Affleck's direction, you're on the edge of your seat. But there's no denying that this nail-biter has a major weakness: racism. It bombards the audience with scenes depicting Iranians as a uniform mass of angry, violent revolutionaries. They seem to only chant and scream nonsense because no subtitles run during protest scenes, nor does the non-Persian-speaking viewer get a translation of most of the dialogues in which Iranians have lines. Instead, the Iranians in the film are flat, menacing characters.

Though the story of the hostage crisis deserves to be told, I can't help but wonder if Argo draws a simple line of causation between the storming of the American Embassy in Tehran and the enmity between the two countries. Today's impasse between Washington and the Islamic Republic of Iran owes much more to a second, deeper trauma.

Less than a year after the embassy takeover, Saddam Hussein's army invaded Iran. The Iran-Iraq war fueled a bustling arms trade, including the illegal chemical weapons sold to Iraq by the West. Iraqi forces fired thousands of mustard gas and other chemical shells at Iranian soldiers during the course of the eight-year war, completely flouting international law.

These lethal weapons were also used more than 30 times on residential areas in Iran, as well as in the Iraqi Kurdish town of Halabja, where more than 5,000 civilians were killed in 1988.

U.S. and European companies supplied the materials Iraq used to make chemical weapons. To date, no company has been prosecuted in international courts for its involvement in this commerce.

The United States officially tilted toward Saddam Hussein during the Iran-Iraq war, but President Ronald Reagan cut arms deals with Iran, too. Why? It gave the Reagan administration a way to secure the release of other hostages in Lebanon and to bypass a congressional ban on supplying the Nicaraguan anti-government rebels known as "Contras" with weapons.

Most egregious, however, was the Western indifference to Iraq's repeated chemical weapons use. The United Nations spurned Iranian requests for official investigations until three years after the poisons initially appeared on the battlefield. Eventually, UN teams exposed Iraq as having violated the 1925 Geneva Protocol, but the United States and other key member states ignored the finding.

Americans haven't forgiven Iran for the hostage crisis.

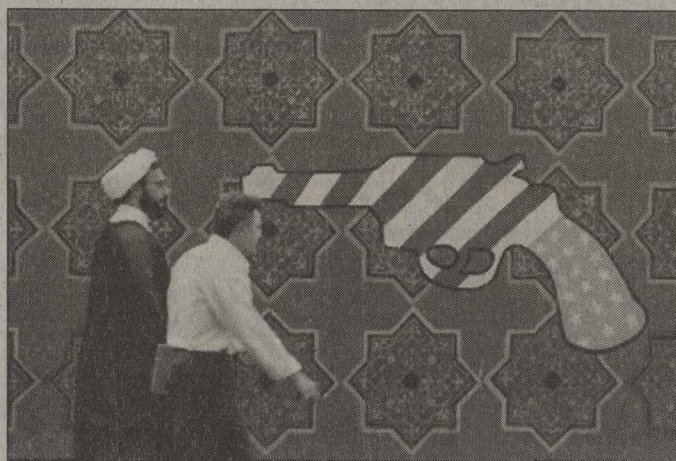

And the Islamic Republic deeply distrusts Washington partly because of its complicity and silence while Saddam's forces blanketed Iranian lands with poisonous gas.

Meanwhile, survivors of these vicious weapons live in constant pain. Their eyes water and burn, their bodies are racked by coughing, and they're highly susceptible to cancer and other diseases. In a cruel twist of fate, many are now denied the medicine they need by U.S. sanctions against Iran.

Argo illustrates the power of films about past traumas and their potential to help us understand current crises. When it comes to Iran-U.S. relations, however, we need a more complete story.

To avoid another disastrous war in the Middle East, Americans and Iranians must be willing to see the validity of each other's history — and, yes, feel each other's pain.

Margo Ranger, a Senior Portfolio Manager at PW Global, will describe the investment climate that forms the determinative backdrop for financial markets, risk analysis, and decision-making: economic, geopolitical, and monetary factors that create or discourage the growth of business, the consequent attractiveness of stocks vs. bonds vs. hard assets, the appeal of investing in foreign entities, currency fluctuation, inflation, and deflation, the impact of debt accumulation, and the outlook for our investment climate as we go forward under a new Administration in 2013.

WHS Security Post-Newtown

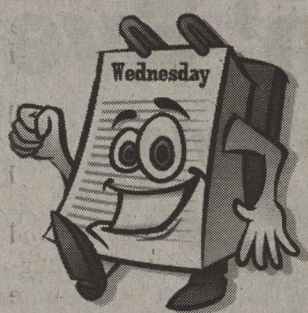

The recent article regarding security for new WHS & keeping our children safe at school raises some great points. The current security plans at our schools require guests to ring a bell, identify themselves & then get "buzzed" into the school. This does nothing but let you know who is coming into the building, assuming they give the correct name. I think we need to be even more aggressive with the security of our children. Each school should have a vestibule just inside the front door-made of bullet proof glass perhaps. A guest of the school can be "buzzed" into the vestibule & comfortably wait to pick up their child, drop off an item to the school or do whatever business they require. If they are coming in for a meeting or to visit a classroom, it would be prearranged, their name would be on a list & after showing ID they can be let into the building.

Your Money

Resolve to Save More of Your Money in 2013

(StatePoint) Two of the most commonly made and commonly broken New Year's resolutions are saving money and paying off debt. These are promises we all seem to make to ourselves every year with every intention of seeing through. But somehow, we wind up in the same spot we were before.

So how can you make sure that 2013 is the year you take control of your finances and start making your money work for you?

• Figure out what your objectives are -- be it paying off debt, buying a first home, or saving for vacation. Identifying your goals can help you stay motivated. Consider placing a visual reminder somewhere you'll see all the time, like the refrigerator.

• Many people have no idea how much money they spend monthly. Creating a spending plan is vital if you want to make your money do for you what you want it to. If you share your finances with someone else, make sure he or she is part of this process as well.

• Many financial services companies offer free tools to help you easily see what you've been spending and ways you can save. For example, the non-profit Family Credit Management offers spending plans, savings guides and a comprehensive personal financial goals workbook that help you to lay out a strong plan in an easy way. Visit www.FamilyCredit.org to see these and other financial tools.

• Make the small changes that add up to big savings. Most people have small expenses that they can live without. Maybe for you it's a coffee every morning on your way to work. If you do this every weekday, that adds up to $1,300 per year! If that's important to you, then fine. But if it's not worth the annual amount you're spending, cut the cost.

The idea is not to strip the fun from your life, but to save money on things that you really don't care about. For more areas to save in your daily life, visit www.StopThinkSave.org.

• Involve your whole family. Many parents feel the need to shelter kids from financial strain, but budgeting is an invaluable life lesson that you can teach them by including them in the process.

• Ask for help! If you feel you could use some guidance, reach out to a certified credit counselor who is licensed by your state's banking department and has an A+ rating with the Better Business Bureau. Visit www.FamilyCredit.org to find a certified counselor.

• Finally, figure out what to do with your new found savings! If you're not sure where you'd like to keep or invest your money, you can visit bankrate.com and investigate high interest, low balance requirement savings accounts.

Once you've completed these steps, you are on your way! Saving money is habit forming -- when you get your monthly statement and you see money building up, you'll want to put more and more away. It's a great way to get started on a financially successful New Year.

Tyler Summers attended the inactivation of USS Enterprise

WILMINGTON - Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Tyler J. Summers, son of Coren and Charles Panzino of Wilmington, Mass., along with nearly 12,000 past and current crewmembers, family and friends attended the inactivation of aircraft carrier USS Enterprise (CVN 65).

Enterprise, the world's first nuclear powered aircraft carrier, recently completed its 25th and final deployment and returned to its homeport of Naval Station Norfolk for a scheduled inactivation, held prior to the ship's terminal offload program and subsequent decommissioning.

The inactivation ceremony was the last official public event for the ship, and served as a celebration of life for the ship and the more than 100, 000 Sailors who served aboard.

The Chief of Naval Operations, the Commander of United States Fleet Forces, nine of twenty-three prior commanding officers, many decorated war heroes, and thousands of Enterprise veterans attended the event.

In honor of that spirit, Secretary of the Navy Ray Mabus, in a video message played at the ceremony, announced that the name Enterprise will live on as the officially passed the name to CVN-80, the third Ford class carrier and the ninth ship in the U.S. Navy to bear the name.

Commissioned on November 25, 1961, the eighth ship to bear the illustrious name Enterprise, the "Big E" was the world's first nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

A veteran of 25 deployments to the Mediterranean Sea, Pacific Ocean, and the Middle East, Enterprise has served in nearly every major conflict to take place during her history. From the Cuban Missile Crisis in 1962 to six deployments in support of the Vietnam conflict through the Cold War and the Gulf Wars, Enterprise was there. On September 11, 2001, Enterprise aborted her transit home from a long deployment after the terrorist attacks, and steamed overnight to the North Arabian Sea. Big 'E' once again took her place in history when she launched the first strikes in direct support of Operation Enduring Freedom.

More than 100,000 Sailors and Marines have served aboard Enterprise during its lifetime, which has included every major conflict since the Cuban Missile Crisis. It has been home ported in both Alameda, Calif., and Norfolk, Va., and has conducted operations in every region of the world.

Summers is a 2007 graduate of Wilmington High School of Wilmington, Mass. and joined the Navy in September 2007.

Michael J. Frazier graduated US Navy recruit training

TEWKSBURY - Navy Seaman Michael J. Frazier, son of Kathy A. and Mark D. Frazier of Tewksbury, Mass., was recently promoted to his current rank upon graduation from recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

Frazier received the early promotion for outstanding performance during all phases of the training cycle. Training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations". This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a Sailor.

Frazier is a 2006 graduate of Tewksbury High School of Tewksbury, Mass.

Living in New England

5 Tips for Safe Traveling in Snow & Ice

Last week the Snow & Ice Management Association (SIMA) issued five tips to safe post-holiday shopping and travel in wintry weather.

Martin B. Tirado, CAE, Executive Director, Snow & Ice Management Association said, "Without vigilance, those shopping or traveling may run the risk of damaging their cars or trucks, or risking injury to themselves or their loved ones."

SIMA, the national non-profit organization representing the snow removal industry, has some tips on safe post-holiday shopping or travel in today's inclement weather.

TIP #1: CHECK WEATHER REPORTS.

Before venturing out to the local shopping center or mall, check the weather report. If it already has started to sleet or snow, listen to the news to hear about your local road conditions before leaving your home. If the roads are hazardous, consider staying home.

TIP #2: SNOW AND ICE REMOVAL MAY NOT BEGIN IMMEDIATELY.

Severe storms or blizzards will often limit or slow snow removal efforts. Be prepared to trudge through an unplowed parking lot or street with the proper footwear such as all-weather or snow boots with good traction and by layering your winter clothing with materials that repel moisture and wick away perspiration.

TIP #3: UNDERSTAND THE HAZARDS OF WALKING ON SNOW OR ICE.

Even in the most manicured shopping environments the snow often falls faster than the snow removal professionals can take it away. Therefore, sidewalks, walkways, steps and parking lots around stores may not be completely free of snow and ice. Keep vigilant when walking during or after a snow event. Be especially careful when transferring your weight from the sidewalk to the curb, particularly when carrying packages or small children. Extra weight in your arms can alter your center of gravity and affect your balance leading to a higher probability of a fall.

TIP #4: CAREFULLY ENTER AND EXIT PARKING LOTS

Entering and exiting parking lot spaces create hazards even under normal weather conditions. But when the parking lot is covered in snow, it's even more dangerous. Piles of parking lot snow often create smaller parking spaces and barriers that are difficult to see around. Watch for pedestrians and snow removal equipment when you are driving in a parking lot. When walking in a parking lot, watch for vehicles that may be out of control or drivers that don't see you.

TIP #5: AVOID GETTING BEHIND SNOW REMOVAL EQUIPMENT.

Good snow removal equipment has strong lights but even so, never get behind moving snow removal equipment, especially if the truck is spreading salt or other materials designed to melt snow and ice.

A FEW ADDITIONAL THINGS TO REMEMBER-

parking decks can be hazardous because snow and ice can blow in through the sides and accumulate. And although the snow and ice has been removed, drivers still need to watch for melted snow that refreezes to create ice. This may occur near roof overhangs, building drains, and in parking lot drainage areas.

Following these tips will help ensure that you survive the 2013 winter safely. For more snow and ice removal tips, visit SIMA.

Founded in 1996, the Snow & Ice Management Association is the nation's trade association for professionals involved with the snow & ice industry including snow plowing as well as commercial & residential snow removal.

“Hellen Keller in Love” lecture next Wednesday

MELROSE - An evening with Rosie Sultan, author of “Helen Keller in Love”, will be the feature of the January 9 meeting of the Melrose-Wakefield Area Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Ms. Sultan's debut novel imagines a part of Keller's life she rarely spoke of or wrote about: the man she once loved. Richly textured and deeply sympathetic, Sultan's highly inventive telling of a story Keller herself would not tell is both a captivating romance and a rare glimpse into the mind and heart of an inspirational figure.

The AAUW meeting will be held at the First United Methodist Church, 645 Main Street, Melrose, at 7 p.m., Wednesday, January 9, 2013. As usual, the public is invited and refreshments will be served. A $5 gratuity will be gratefully accepted.

Three arrested for drug deal near local home store

By JAYNE W. MILLER
News Editor

TEWKSBURY - With an ideal location at a highway exit ramp on 495, police know that drug dealers can be attracted to the large Home Depot parking lot at 85 Main Street. Last Friday, December 28, Detectives arrested three suspects for allegedly dealing drugs in the popular home store's lot, all three from out of town.

According to a statement from Tewksbury Police, Detectives conducting surveillance "observed a narcotics transaction in the Home Depot parking lot." The statement indicated that a female passenger later identified as Bianca Figueredo, 29, exited a Honda Civic and entered the passenger side of a Mercury Sable operated by a man, later identified as Dana Fecteau, 48. Police state that they observed an alleged hand-to-hand transaction between Figueredo and Fecteau inside the car.

Police determined that Figueredo sold cocaine to Fecteau and both were arrested. The driver of the Civic, Angelica Aviles, 30, was also arrested and additional narcotics were allegedly found in her vehicle as well.

Lots of Love Cat Rescue

Start the New Year with a New Pet, Toby

I'm Toby, a handsome young tabby playboy, about a year old, and stunning enough for a cat magazine, with my gray soft fur and streaks of black.

I just love to play and can often be heard chasing a rubber ball or seen soaring high after a wand toy. Take the time to play with me and I will love you even more.

I might have a touch of coon cat in me, with my fluffy tail and furry ears and paw pads. I so enjoy being picked up and a good ear scratching. Not the shy type, I will greet anyone who visits, rubbing up against them to show my affectionate side. When being petted, I have a purr that never ends and will lie down and roll all around. I'm not much into meowing and kind of the independent type.

I currently live in a foster home that has two cats, and as an alpha type, I would be fine if I was the only cat. I can often be found lying on the couch, with a "no care in the world" attitude. Even if the vacuum cleaner goes by, I'm so laid back, they vacuum around me. Won't you please think about coming to play with me?

resenting them. The children read the names of the victims, including their ages, before shuffling to the other side of the gazebo to make room for the next child. After each victim's name had been read, a full two minutes silence commenced.

After the two minutes of silence, a singer, Lauren Azevedo, took the stage. She had prepared a special song for this occasion, titled "Pray" and in the swirling snow, in front of a sea of candles and solemn faces, she began to sing.

Lauren's lyrics, such as "Pray for the broken hearted, pray for the lives not started" and "I just can't sleep tonight, if I close my eyes I can see a better day" were touching to the crowd, and after she had finished singing soft sobs could be heard out on the snowy field.

A poem, "Little Angel" was read next, and the lyrics further moved the crowd. Lines such as "The saddest word known to man is goodbye" and "No heartache compares to the death of a little child" fit the somber mood of the evening, and further drew emotion out of the gathered crowd.

As the presentation continued and neared completion, Stacie Murphy took the stage with her megaphone and made a few comments. She concluded the evening with the statement "We love you Newtown, and we're so sorry."

As people started to leave, Murphy was asked what inspired her to organize this vigil. She stated that "Heartache inspired this."

Hull Declares 2013 the 'Year of Wilmington High School'

The Town budget is also, of course, occupies top-of-mind for Hull in the near term.

"That's going to be a major focus over the next several months here," he said.

Hull called the establishment of the Fiscal Year '14 budget a "major goal," and he will make sure it provides all of the services residents have come to expect.

The governor's recently announced 9C cuts loom in the background for the current fiscal year, however, and lend a sense of uncertainty to the budgeting process and to the impact on local aid for next year.

In addition to the budget, Hull said the town will focus on the Yentile farm project. Wilmington purchased the property at the Annual Town Meeting, which was held on May 5, with the purpose of transforming the parcel into athletic fields.

"At this point, we're gathering information through the survey," Hull said. "Ultimately, we want to translate that into a recommendation that can go back to the Board of Selectmen."

Hull also highlighted the replacement of windows at the North Intermediate School. This, too, was approved at Town Meeting. The town had received some funding, but Hull is looking for more.

"We'll be working to try to get additional funding through the Massachusetts School Business Authority," he said.

But, again, the primary objective for the town will be moving forward with the high school project.

Any future dates—such as breaking ground—remain to be seen, Hull said.

member School Committee, currently held by Chairperson Margaret Kane and Clerk Robert Hayes. Hayes also pulled his nomination papers first thing Wednesday morning. Kathleen Carroll's seat is also up for election.

This year Robert Peterson is up for re-election to the ten-member regional vocational technical school committee at Shawsheen Tech for a three-year term. Peterson is the current chairman of that committee. Robert DiPasquale, current

Chairman of the Wilmington Housing Authority, is also up for election this year.

Candidates may start pulling nomination papers at Town Clerk Sharon George's office Wednesday, Jan. 2, open from 8:30 to 4:30 pm Monday - Friday. Each candidate must obtain at least fifty valid registered Wilmington voters' signatures and addresses. With the Annual Town Election on Sat, April 27 from 8 am - 8 pm, the last day for candidates to file their nomination papers is Friday, March 8 by 5:00 pm.

Male Athlete of the Year: Colin Doherty

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

When it comes to choosing an athlete of the year a lot goes into the thinking and decision. This one was easy.

Colin Doherty is the lone male student-athlete at Wilmington High School to be a three-sport captain. He's also the lone athlete in the entire school to be named an All-Scholastic during the past calendar year, doing so this past fall during the soccer season. He's also the only kid to be named to both the Eastern Mass and All-State Boys Soccer teams, which he also accomplished in November.

In one calendar year, Doherty came off the bench and provided a great spark for the boys' basketball team which had a team full of seniors. Then in the spring, he played multiple positions for the baseball team helping the Wildcats win a share of the Middlesex League Small School title and making it to the post-season.

Finally this past fall, he helped the Wildcats capture the ML Small School title and reach the Division 2 North Sectional Semi-Finals as a midfielder/forward on the soccer field. He was named a ML All-Star for the second straight year, the ML Small School League MVP, a Boston Globe All-Scholastic, a Lowell Sun All-Star, as well as making it to both the Eastern Mass and All-State teams. He's the first player since keeper Vinny Papageorgiou to make the All-State squad.

When it comes to Doherty and his three sports, he's a natural gifted athlete. He's strong, he can run, jump, shoot, throw and kick. But the best part - and sometimes his own worst enemy - is his emotions. He's very rugged on the fields and the courts. He plays with that terrific emotion, flare and attitude. He's very serious, focused and determined on the field. Years ago his emotions sometimes would get the best of him but for the most part that has changed but at the same time it's what makes him such an elite athlete.

"I think one of the things that sets Colin apart from other soccer players is he would get involved in traffic with head balls and through balls and he would take a ball into traffic and make something happen where other kids just can't or don't do that," said soccer coach Steve Scanlon. "Colin did a real nice job for us as a leader and he worked very hard on the field and always gave you everything he had."

Off The Bench

Last year, the WHS Boys' Basketball team suffered a very up and down season. The team went through its share of heartache losses, season ended injuries and missed out on the state tournament for just the second time in over two decades. There were several positives that came out of the season and one of them was the play of Doherty - he didn't start but whenever he came onto the floor, he added a great spark, a few baskets, ton of hustle and just what that guy you enjoyed watching play.

"My role with the team last year was to come off the bench and provide energy," said Doherty. "Coach (Joe Maiella) is always real clear with everyone and their role. I didn't mind that role at all. I tried to come off the bench, provide some energy, hustle here and there and that's the role that I loved last year."

"We had a tough season. We came up a little bit short and we had high expectations but it was definitely a tough league. It was a disappointing season. When Vinny (Scifo) went down with his injury, we were all pretty bummed. But we were able to put a small winning streak together but we just came up short at the end. We were in so many close games and it seemed like it was one turnover here or there or one free throw here or there and it was the little stuff I guess that made us unlucky at times."

Already just five games into this season, Doherty hasn't come off the floor - well for a few shot breaks he has. His role has dramatically changed. He's much more involved with the offense, driving to the basket at will and just this past week he finished with ten points in the win over Shawsheen and then had eight points and five boards in the win over Tewksbury giving Wilmington the Christmas Tournament Championship for the fourth straight year.

"I think he's a fantastic choice (for the Athlete of the Year)," said Maiella. "He's a very good athlete. I saw him in soccer and he had a great season for them. He's a three-sport captain which is very rare. He's going to have a big year for us in basketball. He's going to get some big minutes and he's the guy who is going to be defending other team's best players. He can cover a guard and he can cover a big guy. If we're playing a team whose best player is a two guard, Colin is going to cover him. But if we're playing a team like Woburn who has a very good center who is 6-3, Colin will cover him because he's so athletic."

"He's a good kid, he has good character, he plays with a lot of energy and he also plays with that edge and toughness. A lot of the kids really respect him and he's a good captain."

Doherty admitted that thus far playing four eight minute quarters compared to just eight total minutes is quite the change - but he has adapted to it.

"This season is different," he said. "In our first game against Woburn I played a lot of minutes and I know now that I have to tone it down and I can't use up all of my energy all at once."

He said playing with that up-tempo energy every second of every game is something that is very important to his playing style.

"I like to lead by example," he said. "I talk here and there but I like to lead by example. I just try to always play my hardest and hopefully my teammates follow that. I don't think talking is that necessary unless you absolutely have too."

Better Command

If you look at Colin Doherty's pitching stats from this past year, you would think he was Dice-K. But he's much better than his stats - he knows it and his coach knows it. But on the diamond, he played almost every position for the Wildcats this season - was very steady in the field especially at third base or in the outfield, provided a decent stick but struggled on the mound. That being said, he was still a huge reason why the Wildcats captured a share of the ML Division 2 title, and made a post-season appearance, losing to Lynn Classical in the opening round.

"We had a great season finishing in a tie for the Middlesex League (small school) championship," he said. "We had a good season and defeated a lot of the small school teams. We did struggle against the large school teams. But it was fun. Timmy Woods and (Jon) Keough were great on the mound, Dalton (Rolli) and Cole (Peffer) were great at the plate and so was Phil (Lentini) who had the highest batting average on the team. We had consistent offense throughout the season."

At the plate, in his first varsity season, Doherty finished with a .281 average, finishing with 16 hits in 21 games including a double and two triples. He also had 11 runs batted in which ranked third on the team, he finished with ten stolen bases which was second on the team, had walks, including hit by pitches.

"Colin had a great year for us," said head coach Aldo Cairra. "Looking at his stats and he was basically fourth or fifth in every offensive category we have. That might not seem like a big deal but for a first year varsity player going up against a league full of veteran pitchers it certainly was for us. He was very consistent the whole year long hitting in the five-spot for us and getting on base in 18 of the 21 games we played. That was one of the biggest deals for us because of his speed. It seemed like once he reached first he was automatically on second and he even stole third a couple of times, it was fun to watch him on the base paths."

Defensively, Doherty basically saw time at every position but second base, catcher and two of the outfield spots.

"He started out as our opening day left fielder and he also pitched, played shortstop, right field and finished the year as our everyday third baseman," said Cairra. "He was so thought of by his teammates that they voted him 'Rookie of the Year' and also voted him a co-captain for next season. Coming into next season he will be our starting third baseman and more than likely our clean-up hitter. He should also see a lot of time on the mound for us."

On the mound he struggled. Despite being able to throw very hard, he just couldn't execute his pitches on a consistent basis. He finished with a 0-4 record and a 6.22 ERA, including walking 22 batters and striking out 16 in 18 innings.

"He throws the ball very hard but just didn't seem to have the control he needed to have better numbers," said Cairra. "I think with the work he's done over last summer he will certainly turn some heads when he's on the hill this year."

Doherty said that he has already started an off-season throwing program with teammate Tim Woods and that has helped him change some things. He said it's really not his mechanics that are the problems with the walks.

"I have to work on my pitching for this year," he said. "I didn't throw too many strikes last year. I think I just lost command of my fastball and it was just in my head. My mechanics were there and it seemed like I was just overthinking it. Hopefully with the experience, I'll do better this year."

Doherty added that he really enjoys playing for Cairra - as well as Scanlon and Maiella - and like his other two coaches, Cairra said Doherty is a unique, but very good athlete.

"The two best things about Colin is his competitiveness and consistency," said Cairra. "When he gets on the field he competes and is so focused that sometimes you can't even talk with him between innings. And that's a good thing because it seems nothing rattles him. It is one hundred percent effort for seven innings and his main goal is to help his team win. Being so consistent in what he does, I know that when he gets to the plate something good is going to happen."

"And like I said when he gets on base he causes havoc with the opposing pitchers. He just one of those type of kids, actually in a team full of them, that coaches love to coach and want on their side. He's competitive, focused, a great teammate and is all about the team."

Magnificent Nine

Throughout the soccer season, Doherty mostly played midfield but when the team needed a goal in a pinch, he was sent to the forward line. He finished the season with nine goals and four assists, and grabbed many outstanding individual honors along the way.

"Colin is a good, natural athlete who can do a lot of things well," said Scanlon. "He's athletic, he's a strong kid, he runs well and he's a tough kid. He was a big scorer for us."

Doherty was one of the many reasons why the soccer team did so well, finishing with just one regular season loss and finished the season with 14 shut outs. The team rode a successful wave in the state tournament, beating Marblehead and Bedford before losing to North Andover in the sectional semi-finals.

"It was a fun year, a real fun year," he said. "I knew that we had a lot of kids back and that we would be a pretty good team, but I didn't think we would be that good to be honest. I never expected us to get to the sectional semi-finals. Our defense went on a tear with (14 shut outs) and then we started to come together offensively. We had good tournament wins over Marblehead and Bedford and then against North Andover we just had our worst game of the season. We just didn't come to play for whatever reason. They were a real good team but I think if we played them again it would be a much closer game."

Doherty also said that a lot of credit for his athletic success goes to his family, including his father and his brother, who are both named Brendan. His brother played soccer at WHS but didn't continue to play it in college, and Colin doesn't think he'll continue to play the sport either. He wants to become an engineer and has applied to many schools so far and said he's thinking of playing baseball if he plays sports at all.

"My brother (Brendan) plays a big role in how I play sports and the attitude I have," he said. "He just teaches me to always play hard, and my Dad is the same way. They always tell me that you can control how hard you play but you can't control the way the ball bounces."

Annual McGrath/K of C Tournament

Wilmington tops Tewksbury to win fourth straight title

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the fourth straight year the Wilmington High School Boys Basketball team captured the annual Knights of Columbus/Larry McGrath Memorial Christmas Tournament with wins over Shawsheen Tech and Tewksbury this past Thursday and Friday evenings.

The Wildcats first came from behind to beat the Rams, 50-46, before topping the Redmen 67-58 for its first two wins of the season. Littleton, the fourth team who is coached by former WHS standout Mike Lombard, was defeated by Tewksbury in the opener and then beat Shawsheen in the consolation final.

Wilmington sophomore center Connor Bennett was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player after posting 19 points and 12 rebounds in the opener, and then scoring 8 points and adding 10 rebounds in the final. His teammate Steve Colangelo was named to the All-Tournament team after he had a combined 20 points in the game. Also making it to the All-Tourney team were Tewksbury's Kevin Dick and Nate Tenaglia. Dick combined for 37 points and 18 rebounds in the two games and Tenaglia, the energetic freshman guard, combined for 30 points, including 19 in the opening win over Littleton.

Both Littleton and Shawsheen entered the tournament undefeated and leave with records of 5-1 and 3-2, and Wilmington is now 2-3 overall, while Tewksbury is 4-3 after the split.

Here's a recap of the tournament:

Championship Game

Tewksbury started off with a slim 8-4 lead three minutes into the game before Colin Doherty converted on a drive which ignited a 15-0 run for the Wildcats, who never looked back. Wilmington closed out the first quarter leading 19-11 and the half ahead by five at 38-33. In the third quarter the lead continued to swing between five and seven points and closed out at 52-45 and Tewksbury did make it a three-point game after freshman Sean Derrah drained a three-pointer with 3:32 to go, but the Wildcats held on the rest of the way behind a big three-pointer from Tyler Vibert and several clutch free throws.

"Tewksbury is very, very good," said Wilmington head coach Joe Maiella. "They were trying to take Connor (Bennett) out of the game defensively. They were going five out - they were going to Kevin Dick everytime out on the top of the key and the other four guys were on the perimeter, he would drive to the net and kick out to one of the other four guys. That kid Kevin Dick is a phenomenal player. But I thought we did a Last Thursday and Friday, the annual K of C/Larry McGrath Memorial Basketball Tournament was held at WHS with Wilmington coming out on top over Tewksbury in the Championship game, while, Littleton defeated Shawsheen Tech in the consolation final. Above are the members of the All-Tournament team, representing Tewksbury include Kevin Dick (far left) and Nate Tenaglia, and from Wilmington include Tourney MVP Connor Bennett (25) and Steve Colangelo. real nice job defending Tenaglia, the freshman. We were face guarding him the whole game."

Tewksbury played a fantastic first half the night before against Littleton, and against Wilmington, they just didn't bring the same intensity for all 48 minutes.

"The worst thing that could have happened to us tonight was walking into the gym and seeing a 25-point win by Littleton over Shawsheen," said Redmen head coach Phil Connors. "It was the worst thing for these kids to see. The minute we think we can walk into a game and win a game, we'll lose. We'll lose the next 16 games if we think that we are better than any other team. That's what happened when you think you're better than other teams, you get off to a slow start and you have to fight back and it's hard to come back like that. I liked the attitude when we started to fight back but I wish we had that attitude to start the game. When you're behind, you play tight and it's hard to make shots when you're tight."

"We bailed out of charges tonight, and it was just one of our worst efforts of the season. Everything was bad tonight including the coaching. I had a bad game tonight too - everything was bad tonight from beginning until end. Their guys were getting around us on the drive tonight and that shouldn't have been happening. This was not a good effort and this loss is just really disappointing. We are playing a team on Friday in Haverhill who is better than us so I think we have to go into every game for now on thinking the other team is better than us. That Littleton team is the best team in this tournament and we beat them because we paid attention to detail and tonight we didn't pay attention to what we were supposed to be doing."

The previous three games Wilmington tried its outside game - too much - and it was backfiring making just two three-pointers through the first three games. That lack of success continued against Shawsheen as the 'Cats finished 3-for-18 from beyond the arc but were able to prevail, and against Tewksbury they did a great job of eliminating that part of their game and attack the basket, led by James Wilkinson, who had a monster game with 19 points and six rebounds. Colangelo and Colin Doherty added to that as well with a combined 19 points.

"We did a great job attacking the basket," said Maiella. "James was struggling up until this game and I just told him that he needed to attack the basket more and he did, and he had a real big game for us. We have good athletes on this team and we can compete. That Tewksbury team is a real good team. I'm happy that we scored 67 points and we came out of our shell offensively."

Kevin Dick finished with a team high 19 points and Tenaglia was the other player in double figures as he had 11. Tewksbury was 8-for-26 from three-point line and also finished 20-for-30 from the free throw line in a game controlled by the whistles.

Redmen top Tigers

On Thursday night, Tewksbury edged out Littleton, 58-55, in the first round match-ups to put itself into the final the next night. The Redmen played fantastic in the first half, especially defensively, and then took advantage of Littleton losing its top two players due to technical fouls in the second half to secure the win.

"We got lucky because their best players got into foul trouble," said Connors. "But in the first half, we executed our game plan perfectly. We did exactly what we wanted from our scouting report and took their best player away. We took their right hands away, we changed defenses, we pressed them and got turnovers, we got great ball movement and I was very happy with our overall intensity. The first half was picture-perfect of what we need to do and what we wanted to do."

Tewksbury had leads of 18-8 and 35-17 after the first two quarters. Then the Redmen struggled in the third quarter turning the ball over multiple times as Littleton went to a 2-2-1 press which seemed to take the momentum away from the Redmen.

"Their 2-2-1 press really bothered us and it shouldn't have bothered us," said Connors. "We worked on it a lot. But they were playing man-to-man but they got so far behind they changed it up and that bothered us. But we have to work on handling pressure. We have to play with better composure."

Littleton was able to close the margin down to five points at 45-40 with 5:45 to go, before back-to-back three-pointers by Chris Crawford and Alex DiRocco which all but sealed the victory.

Again Kevin Dick had a monster game with 18 points and 13 rebounds.

"He does everything for us," said Connors. "He's our point guard and then he'll guard the team's best guy and tonight was their biggest guy. Kevin has transformed himself from not really being a ball handler to someone who handles the ball for us and can play any position on the court. He did a great job."

As impressive as Kevin Dick was on the night, freshman teammate Nate Tenaglia again was in double figures leading the team with 19 points.

"In the spring, we had two Tewksbury AAU teams and he was on the second team playing with eighth graders," said Connors of Tenaglia. "And he just played basketball five hours a day and now he's at this point. When I first saw him last year as an eighth grader I loved him because he was tough as nails and he's a kid I picked out right away. But I thought he would be a pretty good player at the freshmen level and perhaps at the JV level if he improved, and then he just kept moving up and up and up and it's just all about effort. He's a kid who just busted his butt. He was never a great shooter and now he is. "Everytime I bring my daughter down at the Livingston Street Park to put her on the swings, Nate is there every single day practicing. That's the thing about basketball which is different from other sports. If you work the hardest you can make yourself a skilled basketball player."

Wildcats vs Rams

In the second game on Thursday night, Shawsheen Tech got off to a terrific start, leading Wilmington 14-4 before sophomore guard Zachary Abbott came off the Wilmington bench and buried a pair of three-pointers which gave the team a huge lift. The Wildcats were able to close out the half down by four points before outscoring the Rams 15-10 in the third and 13-10 in the fourth to come away with the 50-46 victory.

Trailing 22-15 midway through the second quarter, several minutes after Abbott's two treys, Wilmington got Bennett much more involved in their offense and he closed out the second quarter scoring eight of his 19 points in a 5:41 span. "The game plan was to get Connor move involved," said Maiella. "He is coming along and he is really working on that drop step move. He has good hands, he has a good touch and I thought he did a real nice job defensively on (Shawsheen Tech's Jared) Pinnett, who is a real good player. That's a real good Shawsheen Tech team over there. Colin Doherty did an excellent job defending (Zach) Mason. I don't know how many points Mason had tonight but he's been averaging over 20 points a game."

Shawsheen had three players end in double figures with Joe Spinale with 12 and Mike Brown and Paul DePlácido with 11 each.

"This was a very tough loss," said Shawsheen coach Greg Bendel. "I thought this was a great game and both teams fought very hard. Obviously Wilmington is a good team. They fought back when they had too, they hit some big shots and they kept their composure. How about that kid Connor Bennett? He was outstanding and he dominated this game. He's 6-9 and he's only a sophomore and to play like he did in front of all of these people you have to give him a lot of credit for being such a young guy. We wanted to attack him, especially defensively but tonight he was outstanding both defensively and offensively."

"You have to give Wilmington a lot of credit. Coach does a nice job with them and they are obviously much better than their record would indicate. We knew their record coming in and we threw that out because we know that they are a quality team."

The Rams lost to Littleton in the consolation game, 74-49. Littleton's Chris Murray added another 29 points to his almost 1,200 career total.

"Chris Murray is one of the best shooters that this area has seen in a very long time," said Bendel.

Joe Mason led the way for the Rams with 17 points. Senior forward Mike Brown was named to the All Tournament team.

WHS Sports Round-Up

Boys Hockey team barely takes tournament title

By JAMIE POTE & MIKE IPPOLITO

The Wilmington High School Boys Hockey team improved their record to 4-1 with two more wins this past week as the 'Cats defeated Masconomet 7-0 and North Andover 3-2, to capture the championship of their four-team division in the annual Haverhill Christmas Tournament.

In the title game, both teams started off slow, before Wilmington was able to take a lead going into the third period and then held on for dear life to escape with the win.

"We played very well against Masco but not so much against North Andover," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "We played a better second period than the first but they outplayed us, outworked us and outskated us in the third period. I think if they game went a few more minutes, they would have got us but luckily we held on."

Scanlon said the big reason for not playing well was too much individual work and not enough team play.

"When we come to play, we're a handful but when we decide to come to the rink and do our own individual thing and just cruise around on the ice, we're very vulnerable. After the game, the North Andover coach told me that it was the best game his team played all season and that his kids were keyed up to face us. I've been trying to tell the kids that but I don't think they get that just yet - we're the marked team by every opponent we face this year."

In the win over North Andover, Cam Owens and Jake Rogers had a goal and an assist each and Billy Falter added the other goal. John Galasso, Brian Pickett and Brendan McDonough had one assist each. Sophomore Drew Foley made 14 saves and was named the Tournament's Most Valuable Player.

In the win over Masco, Owens had a goal and three assists, while Brendan McDonough and Dylan DiNatale had two goals and one assist each. John Galasso and Cam Collins also had a goal and an assist each while Foley made 11 saves for the shut out.

GIRLS TRACK

It's been a great holiday season for the Wilmington High Girls Indoor Track team, as the Wildcats picked up a pair of wins in the days leading up to and immediately following Christmas.

On December 19 the Wildcats dominated Middlesex League rival Stoneham by a score of 58-28, and they followed that up with an even more dominant performance over Watertown the day after Christmas with a 68-13 win.

Against Stoneham the Wildcats had several outstanding efforts in the running events, particularly the sprints, with freshman Devyn Malatesta winning the dash in 8.17 while Christina Spinos took second in 8.24. Senior Savannah Hubbard won the hurdles in 9.7 which qualified her for the state meet with Vicky Lee taking second place in 10.30. Cassie Grasso won the 300 in 44.78, which also qualified her for the state meet while Alex Bischoff was second in a time of 45.07.

The Wildcats also had a strong showing in the two mile event where they took second and third place behind the efforts of Annie Romanzo and Emily Monteforte. Rachel Alatalo left her usual 1,000 meter race to fill in at one mile for the Wildcats and all she managed to do was win the event and qualify for the state meet in a time of 5:43 while Keara MacCorkle took third in 7:01.

The domination of the track events continued for the Wildcats in the 600 and the 1,000 with Nicole Romanzo taking second in the 600 in 1:56 while the 1,000 was a sweep with senior Kelly Hartsough, Kate Richardson and Jackie Parece taking the top three spots. The 4x400 relay team also did very well for the Wildcats with the team of Rachel Alatalo, junior Cassie Grasso and Kelly Hartsough winning in a time of 4:21.

The field events were equally successful for the Wildcats with Jenn Kannally taking second in the shot put with a throw of 25'3" while Kate Richardson was second in the high jump followed closely by Maria Patrone in third. Sam Pitzi jumped 14'2" in the long jump which was a personal best.

The Wildcats made it a very merry day after Christmas last Wednesday with their 68-13 rout of Watertown.

Once again the Wildcats were dominant in the running events with Hubbard winning the hurdles for the third meet in a row in a time of 9.87 while Vicky Lee grabbed a third place finish in the event. Casey McFall earned a second place finish in the dash in a time of 8.50 while Pitzi was 3rd in 8.52.

Alex Bischoff took the top spot in the 300 in a time of 45.02 while Grasso was 3rd in 45.21. The Wildcats got a sweep of the 600 behind the efforts of Hartsough who subbed into the event and won in a time of 1:47 with junior Hristina Tasheva and Jen Collins finishing the sweep in second and third. The 1,000 team swept their event for the second straight meet with Alatalo taking the top spot in 3:20 while Richardson and Parece took second and third.

Callie O'Connell won the mile in 5:53 with Syd Russo taking third in 6:20. Emily Monteforte got the first win of the season in the two mile event for the Wildcats.

The Wildcats once again did very well in the relay events with the 4x400 team of Alatalo, Grasso, Hartsough and Richardson winning in a time of 4:23 while the 4x200 team of Spinos, O'Connell, Pitzi and McFall ran 2:01 in a non scored event.

The Wildcats also took the top two spots in the shot put with Jen Kannally winning the event with a throw of 23'1" and Jen Collins taking second with a throw of 22'2". Patrone won the high jump in 4'4" while Richardson finished second.

GIRLS HOOP

The Wilmington High School Girls Basketball team went 1-1 participating in the St. Mary's of Lynn Christmas Tournament this past week. The 'Cats were first defeated by Bishop Fenwick, 33-28, before picking up the team's first win over the season over Beverly, 52-30. Cailin O'Faherty led the way with 12 points and was named to the All-Tournament team.

GIRLS HOCKEY

The Lady Wildcats picked up their first win of the season topping Waltham, 2-0, behind two goals from junior forward Chloe Castellano.

Rams wrestling team remains perfect

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Some of the best teams in all of New England descended on the Tsongas Arena in Lowell last Thursday and Friday for the 45th Annual George Bossi Lowell Holiday Tournament, with each hoping to show their supremacy amongst the best competition the region has to offer.

The Shawsheen Tech wrestling team considers themselves to be one of the best team in Massachusetts if not all of New England, this weekend they certainly made a strong case for themselves with an eighth place showing in the 58 team field, earning 126.5 points as four members of the team placed in the top six in their weight class and all but one Rams wrestler won at least one match.

The Rams brought 14 wrestlers to the tournament and ten of them did well enough to move on to the second day of competition, as the Rams were actually in third place heading into Friday's matches.

"That's what we expect when we go into a tournament like that," Shawsheen coach Mark Donovan said. "Everyone knows about Shawsheen Tech and what we can do. We strive for that tough competition because we know it will pay off for us at the end."

Senior Devonn Pratt led the way for the Rams with a fourth place finish at 152 pounds, while junior Nick Hoar earned a fifth place finish at 170 pounds, as did senior Dustin Thibault at 182. Sophomore Bryce Spinosa wrapped up the Rams scoring with a sixth place finish at 106 pounds.

Pratt suffered his first two losses of the season in the tournament. After rolling into the semi-finals with two victories by pin and another by major decision, Pratt suffered a 9-5 loss to defending New England champion Ryan Niven of Tyngsboro. He then bounced back with a victory by pin in just 32 seconds in his first consolation match before dropping a hard fought 5-4 decision to Richard Viruet of Springfield Central in the third place match.

"Devonn had a great match against Niven," Donovan said. "He was leading going into the third period, but he lost a scrum and Niven got him for three points. Some of the coaches were around the mat watching and they said the match was a war.

Tewksbury Squirt A's enjoy tournament title

The Tewksbury Redmen Squirt 'A' Hockey Team played in the Boston Bruins Holiday Tournament at the Haverhill Valley Forum and skated away with the Championship Trophy, winning all four games they played.

On Thursday, the Redmen opened up the Bruins' Tourney against a fast and physical Masco team and came away with a hard fought 5-3 win. Masco came out fast and had immediate pressure but the Redmen got great defensive efforts from Austin Tingtella, Jared LeGrand, and Jade Owirka.

The Redmen got on the scoreboard first with 5:55 left in the 1st period on a powerplay goal by Justin Rooney, assists to Jake McDonough and Evan Zonderman. Masco battled back and tied the game with 4:48 left in the period. The remainder of the period was back and forth with both teams getting quality scoring chances.

Redmen goalie Caulin Martel made two glove saves that even had Blades the Bruins Bear chanting his name. The Redmen also had 2 great scoring chances just as the period was ending as the line of Kaylen Taddia, Maci Chapman, and Brady Chapman just missed giving the Redmen the lead. Once again Masco came out fast as the second period started but the Redmen defense made sure that no pucks got through to the net. Chance Fitzgerald, Trevor Lindsey, and Jason Cooke all made great individual defensive plays to keep the score tied 1-1.

The Redmen then took over the period as they scored three goals in a six minute span. With 6:48 left to play in the second period Justin Rooney scored his second goal of the game, an unassisted goal, beating the Masco goalie with a hard wrist shot through the five-hole.

Just 1:17 later Chance Fitzgerald made a great play to keep the puck in the zone, sending a pass to Evan Zonderman at the right face-off circle. Evan wasted no time and fired a hard wrist shot past the Masco goalie. With just under a minute to play in the second period the Redmen increased their lead to 4-1 when Justin Rooney scored his third goal of the game on a great individual effort, beating three Masco defenders to a loose puck and firing a backhand past the Masco goalie. Masco scored just 32 seconds into the third period to cut the Redmen lead to 4-2 and added another goal with 8:28 to play in the game to cut the lead to one.

The Redmen knew they would have to battle to hold off the Masco comeback and that is what they did, getting great effort from the entire team. With just under three minutes to play in the game Jake McDonough scored an insurance goal for the Redmen. Aidan Silvia and Timmy Sweeney combined on the forecheck, stealing the puck from a Masco defenseman. Sweeney fired a quick pass to McDonough in the high slot and Jake fired a hard wrist shot over

Wilmington Youth Hockey weekend wrap-up

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Squirt 1 team wrapped up 2012 with a full slate of games during the final weekend of the year.

First up on Saturday morning was a game against North Andover at the Breakaway Ice Center in Tewksbury. Sam Cedrone was in net, and Ryan Ackerley supplemented a short bench for the Wildcats. The teams skated through a scoreless first period, and continued to play tight through the second. Andrew Gallucci broke through with a goal late in the middle period, and Brendan Ardito added some insurance midway through the third period. North Andover broke up the shutout late in the game, but it wasn't enough as the Wildcats took the 2-1 victory.

On Saturday night, the team headed to Methuen to take on the home team Rangers. Matt Miller was back on defense, with Zach Smith on the left side blue line. Joseph Hansen opened the scoring with his first of the season, but Methuen answered to tie the score at one before the first period expired. After a scoreless middle period, Methuen broke the tie with a late goal in the third, and tacked on one more in the final minute as the Wildcats took some chances to try and even the score.

A late penalty against the 'Cats set back the rally and Methuen took the 3-1 win.

Sunday morning was a rematch against North Andover at Merrimack College. The game was again scoreless through the first period until Derek Gallucci made a rush up the ice and scored with just one second remaining on the clock. The second period had Wilmington building a solid lead with good passing plays and a bit of luck. Maura Fiorenza finished with the goal after Joseph Hartzell and Jimmy McCarron worked the puck deep into the offensive zone. Matt Pendenza capitalized on good passing plays from Anthony Bowker and Andrew Gallucci, and Fiorenza added her second goal with a pinball shot from behind the net that bounced off the back of the goalie's leg and into the net.

North Andover rallied in the third period and narrowed the lead to 4-3, but in the final minute Wilmington held the play in the offensive zone and Joseph Hartzell picked up a second assist by freeing the puck from a jam along the boards and feeding Derek Gallucci in front for his second goal and the 5-3 final.

Monday morning in Lawrence against the Groton Raiders, the Wildcats continued to show confidence in their playmaking. Matt Pendenza opened the scoring, with assists from Anthony Bowker and Brendan Ardito, and minutes later it was Ardito finishing the score with an assist from Pendenza.

After a second goal by Matt Pendenza, Groton got back in the game with a late first period goal and a power play goal early in the second. But the Wildcats had a hot hand with Pendenza and he scored late in the second (Ardito with another assist) and early in the third (Anthony Bowker on the assist). Bowker added his own goal with an assist from Maura Fiorenza and Wilmington walked off with the 6-2 win.

Squirt 2's

The Wilmington Squirt 2's met Everett/Revere for a rematch on a snowy Sunday morning in Lynn.

The Wildcats starting lineup included Ryan Ackerley between Ryan Packer and Joey Cornish. Backing them up were Jason Davey and Nate Packer with Max Churchill in net. The Cats came out skating. They controlled the puck well with defensemen sending the forwards into the zone.

The defense for Everett / Revere kept the Cats to the edges. Connor Hill fought for the puck in the corner and sent it out to James Kourkoutas. James passed it out to Peter Kourkoutas who broke into the Everett/Revere zone. His shot on net was turned away by the E-R goalie. Everett/Revere rushed the puck back toward the Wilmington end but Nate Packer stepped in to send the puck off into the corner. Packer sent the puck up to a rushing Evan Munro who rushed into the Everett/Revere zone for a shot on net. Play was back and forth as the Cats and E-R brought the puck end to end with defensemen keeping the puck to the edges.

With one minute remaining, Everett Revere was able to score two quick goals by picking the corners of Churchill's net.

The Cats came back strong with an early goal in the second. Nate Packer sent his brother Ryan into the zone. Packer picked the corner of the net for Wilmington's first goal. The Cats were on the board. The Cats continued to break into the Everett/Revere end. Hill and Jason Davey fought for the puck, sending it to a waiting James Kourkoutas. Kourkoutas saw Bryan Davey heading up the ice and put the puck right on his stick. Davey passed up to Ryan Ackerley who brought it into the offensive zone. Ackerley put it on net but the Everett/Revere tender turned it away. Davey, Ackerley and Kourkoutas dug at the loose puck around the net but were stopped by the whistle as the E-R goalie tied it up.

The Cats came out fighting in the third. The Kourkoutas brothers, Munro, Ackerley, Callahan, Bryan Davey and Ryan Packer continued to rush the Everett - Revere net with Hill, Nate Packer and Jason Davey keeping the puck to the edges in the defensive zone. When Everett/Revere was able to bring it out front, they were stonewalled by Churchill. With just six minutes remaining in the third, Everett/Revere was able to push one past Churchill to make it a 3-1 game. Wilmington came back fighting.

The line of Ryan Ackerley James Kourkoutas and Bryan Davey had another great scoring chance. A shot by Ryan Ackerley made it over the goal line only to be waved away by the referee. Wilmington did not give up.

On the next shift, Ackerley rushed in with Peter Kourkoutas and Evan Munro. The Cats brought it in close and after a scrum in front of the net, Ackerley was able to get it by the Everett/Revere goal tender. Wilmington continued to rush into the Everett - Revere end but was not able to get the puck by the E/R goal tender.

With two seconds left on the clock, E/R scored to make it 4-2. Even though the score favored Everett/Revere, this was one of the best games of the season for the Squirt 2's.

the goalie's glove for the 5-3 win.

On Friday the Redmen skated against the Lynn Comets and left the rink with a 5-3 win. Julia Stanizzi and Maci Chapman combined on a 2-on-1 just two minutes into the game but Stanizzi's wrist shot was saved by the Comets goalie.

Lynn had their own chances but Redmen goalie Caulin Martle made sure that the Redmen didn't fall behind early, making three highlight reel saves. Lynn scored with 8:07 left in the period but the Redmen battled right back, knotting the game at one just 57 seconds later as Jake McDonough stole the puck from a Lynn defenseman at center ice, broke in alone, and beat the Lynn goalie with one of his patented high wrist shots.

The Redmen took a 2-1 lead just 1 minute later as Justin Rooney scored on a nice backhandler, assist to Timmy Sweeney. Lynn tied the game with 3:35 left in the period on a fluke bounce that ended up in the back of the net.

The Redmen shut the door on twoother Lynn chances as defenseman Chance Fitzgerald and Austin Tingtella used their power and speed to deny the Lynn forwards. The Redmen went on the powerplay with 55 seconds left in the second period and took a 3-2 lead with four tenths of a second left. Brady Chapman controlled the puck behind the Lynn net, deked around a defender and slid a nice pass to Jack McDonough in the slot. Jake fired a one-timer into the back of the net just prior to the buzzer sounding.

The Redmen opened the third period looking to increase their lead. Jake McDonough scored his third goal of the game with 10:32 left in the game on a breakaway to give the Redmen a 4-2 lead. Lynn fought back and cut into the Redmen lead with 7:17 left in the game. Jason Cooke and Trevor Lindsey both made great defensive plays midway through the period to keep the 4-3 lead for the Redmen. Brady Chapman scored an insurance goal with 1:57 left in the game as he took a great pass from Justin Rooney and fired a one-timer under the sliding Lynn goalie for the 5-3 win.

On Saturday, the Redmen were back at Valley Forum in Haverhill to take on a Beverly team that was big and physical. Many of the Beverly players looked big enough to drive themselves to the rink but the Redmen used their speed, team defense, and superior goaltending to come away with a 2-1 win and a spot in the Championship game on Sunday.

The Redmen had chances early on from Shayne MacDonald, Evan Zonderman, and Aidan Silvia but the Beverly goalie made all the saves. Not to be outdone, Redmen goalie Caulin Martel made four to five saves that had all the fans in attendance in awe of his goaltending ability. Beverly had a great chance with two minutes to play in the period but Jade Owirka and Jared LeGrand made great defensive plays to keep the game scoreless.

In the second period, Timmy Sweeney won a race for a loose puck along the right wing boards, cut in, and fired a hard wrist shot that rang off the far post.

The Redmen took a 1-0 lead with 6:02 left in the period when Jason Cooke made a great defensive play at his own blue line breaking up a 2-on-1, and sending a cross-ice pass to Jake McDonough at the far blue line. Jake skated in, weaved around two defenders and fired a hard wrist shot past the Beverly goalie. Then the Beverly goalie made saves on quality scoring chances from Kaylen Taddia, and the Chapman siblings, Maci and Brady.

Beverly put immediate pressure on the Redmen but defenseman Trevor Lindsey made an outstanding play to keep the lead for the Redmen. Justin Rooney scored a highlight reel goal with 4:45 left in the game to increase the lead to 2-0 for the Redmen.

Beverly kept coming and cut into the Redmen lead with 1:03 left in the game. Beverly then pulled their goalie trying to tie the game but Chance Fitzgerald and Austin Tingtella made great defensive plays to secure the 2-1 win and a spot in the Championship Game on Sunday.

On Sunday morning the Redmen skated in the Championship Game of the Boston Bruins Tournament against a Masco team with revenge on their minds. The game started with both teams coming out fast and creating early scoring chances. Timmy Sweeney nearly scored just two minutes into the game but his backhandler was saved. Masco had a breakaway with eight minutes left but Redmen goalie Caulin Martel made sure the Redmen didn't fall behind early.

With just under five minutes to play in the first period the Redmen scored three goals in a four minutes span. Jake McDonough got it started with 4:32 left in the period as he took a nice pass from Jason Cooke and beat the Masco goalie over the left shoulder. McDonough struck again just two minutes later as he stole the puck from a Masco defenseman at center ice, skated in alone and once again fired the puck over the goalie's shoulder for the 2-0 lead.

The Redmen increased their lead to 3-1 with eleven seconds left in the first period as Brady Chapman used his speed to get to a loose puck at center ice, skated in alone and fired a wrist shot that the goalie saved but Justin Rooney was in the perfect position to knock in the rebound.

Masco scored early in the second to cut the Redmen lead to 3-2 but the Redmen defensive unit of Austin Tingtella, Chance Fitzgerald, Trevor Lindsey, Jared LeGrand, Jade Owirka, and Jason Cooke made sure that Masco didn't get close to the Redmen net for the remainder of the second period.

The Redmen had chances to increase their lead but the Masco goalie made quality saves on scoring chances by Kaylen Taddia, Julia Stanizzi, and Maci Chapman. Shayne MacDonald and Evan Zonderman used their size and strength to work the puck down low behind the Masco net resulting in a great scoring chance for Zonderman that was also turned away by the Masco goalie.

Redmen goalie Caulin Martel made two early saves in the third period to keep the score 3-2 in favor of the Redmen. Masco didn't let up and were finally able to tie the game 3-3 with 3:58 left in the game.

Masco was looking to tie the game and force overtime so they pulled their goalie with 1:45 left in the game. Masco gained control of the puck in the Redmen zone but defenseman Chance Fitzgerald made a great play to block a shot. Brady Chapman picked up the loose puck, carried it out to center ice where he sent a pass over to Justin Rooney who skated in alone and fired a wrist shot into the empty net for the 5-3 win and the championship.

The Tewksbury Redmen Squirt 'A' Hockey Team hit the snowy roads to Conway Arena in Nashua NH on Saturday night to take on their rival Wilmington Wildcats and returned home with a well-deserved 3-1 win.

The Redmen set the tone early on the first shift of the game as Timmy Sweeney, Aidan Silvia, and Jake McDonough worked the puck down low and got off two quick shots. Wilmington battled back looking to avenge their 6-1 loss to the Redmen just a week earlier but Redmen Goalie, Caulin Martel continued his strong play, making three great saves in the first three minutes of the game.

The Redmen struck first when the line of Maci Chapman, Kaylen Taddia, and Julia Stanizzi used their speed and aggressive play to steal the puck from a Wilmington defenseman. Stanizzi sent a pass to Chapman at the left face-off circle and she sent a quick pass over to Taddia on the right post. Taddia fired a one-timer into the back of the net for the 1-0 lead.

The Wildcats were determined to tie the score but great defensive plays from Trevor Lindsey and Jared LeGrand kept the lead for the Redmen.

The Redmen opened the second period looking to increase their lead but quality scoring chances from Chance Fitzgerald and Justin Rooney were turned away by the Wildcat goalie. A great defensive effort by Jade Owirka and Austin Tingtella kept the puck out of the Redmen net and led to a scoring chance for Evan Zonderman that hit the post.

The Redmen increased their lead to 2-0 as time was winding down in the second period. Timmy Sweeney started the play by working hard on the backcheck and breaking up a Wilmington forward. Sweeney gained control of the puck at center ice, skated the puck into the Wildcat zone, and fired a hard wrist shot that was saved but Jake McDonough was at the edge of the crease to knock in the rebound.

In the third period Wilmington had a series of point blank shots early in the third period that Redmen goalie Caulin Martel turned away. Cam Whealan and Justin Rooney combined nicely to break up a Wilmington 3-on-2 with seven minutes to play in the game, keeping the score 2-0 for the Redmen.

The Redmen increased their lead to 3-0 with 6:48 left in the game when Shayne MacDonald scored on a high wrist shot over the goalie's blocker, assists to Chance Fitzgerald and Evan Zonderman. Wilmington was able to get on the board with just under five minutes to play in the game.

Sgt. 1st Class Davidson is still flying sky high

Wakefield Native

Sgt. 1st Class
Matt Davidson

By PAUL FEELY

A Wakefield native is a member of the U.S. Army's Golden Knights parachute team that now holds the title of world champion.

The Fort Bragg-based team took home the gold medal for men's eight-way formation skydiving during the World Parachuting Championships in Dubai recently, according to the U.S. Parachute Association.

Sgt. 1st Class Matt Davidson, a 17-year member of the team and a Wakefield native, said the competition was emotionally exhausting.

"It was very taxing emotionally and demands a lot of energy and focus," he said.

The female four-way team took home a silver medal in its competition.

Davidson said the win came down to a competition between the Golden Knights and a French-based team.

As the winner, the Golden Knights were presented with a unique trophy: an Excalibur-style blade known as the Ottley Sword, Davidson said.

Davidson said the win was exciting.

He said it had been a personal goal to win a world championship since at least 1997, when he was an alternate on a team that took home the top prize.

"It's been a pretty long quest," Davidson said.

The female four-way team fell short by just one point, losing to a French team.

As a formation team, the Golden Knights leapt from an aircraft more than two miles

The team was tasked with forming prescribed geometric formations before deploying their parachutes.

Only one team from each country is allowed to compete in the World Parachuting Championships.

The Golden Knights teams earned their slots by winning national championships last year.

Including alternates, 10 soldiers comprised the men's team and five comprised the women's. The 15 soldiers were part of a larger contingent of 60 U.S. skydivers to compete in the nearly two-week event.

Sergeant First Class Matt S. Davidson is a 92R, Parachute Maintenance Technician, serving as a competitor on the Formation Freefall Team for the Golden Knights.

He is a native of Wakefield, but his family moved to Texas prior to his enrolling in high school.

Davidson entered the Army in 1992 and after completion of his initial entry training he was assigned to Fort Bragg, N.C. In addition to his other military assignments Davidson's first tour on the Knights was as a competitor, from 1993 through 2000. In 2002 Davidson returned to the Knights as a member of the Formation Freefall Team.

Since being on the Team Davidson has won many medals including but not limited to: a Gold Medal at the 1996 National Skydiving Competition for 8-way and 20-way, a Gold Medal at the 1997 WorldMeet for 8-way.

In 1998 his team won a Gold Medal at the World Cup for 8-way and Silver Medal at Nationals for 8-way. At the 1999 Nationals his team brought home a Gold Medal for 8-way. Not to be slowed down they also brought home the Silver in both 4-way and 8-way, the gold in 10-way at the 2005 Nationals and the bronze in both 4-way and 10-way at the 2007 Nationals, most recently winning the Silver Medal in 4-way at the Military World Championships. With over 16,000 jumps to his credit, competition and training is a way of life.

Prior to the world championship title, his most recent accomplishments included winning one Gold and two Silver medals and one Bronze at the 2010 U.S. National Skydiving Championships. He and his Team also brought back Silver from the World Meet in Menzelinsk, Russia. In 2012 he and Team won 4 Gold Medals at the US Nationals and 1 Gold Medal at the World Cup in Saarlouis, Germany.

The Golden Knights have a long and storied history.

In 1959, the Strategic Army Command Parachute Team, or STRAC, was formed by nineteen Airborne Soldiers from various military units. Brigadier General Joseph Stilwell Jr. gathered the Soldiers with the intent of competing in what was then the new and Soviet dominated sport of skydiving. That year, the all U.S. Army team began

Movie Reviews

"Jack Reacher"

by Paul Feely

THIS IS A FUN, SLAM BANG ACTION MOVIE with lots of bad guys for Reacher to conquer all by himself, undoubtedly the first in a series. But as good an actor as Tom Cruise is, he is not Jack Reacher.

"JACK REACHER"

GRADE: **

As depicted in the novels by Lee Child, Jack Reacher is a monster of a man, described as 6-5, 245 lbs. When he walks into a room, everybody stops and looks.

Tom Cruise is not Jack Reacher. He's 5-7 and doesn't even approach 200 lbs. Writer/director Christopher McQuarrie uses Hollywood tricks to make Cruise look imposing. Leading female star Rosamund Pike is an inch and a half taller than Cruise at 5-8½, yet she's always looking up at Tom.

If you don't already have an impression of what Jack Reacher looks like, Cruise does a passable job of impersonating a tough guy. He's done it before in the Mission Impossible movies. Cruise is a good actor and he carries it off as well as possible.

This is kind of a knockoff of the early James Bond movies with lots of throw-away humorous lines, although it totally lacks the double entendres that made the first three Bond films so memorable.

Outside of the Cruise miscasting, the cast is terrific. Pike does a good job as the defense attorney Reacher helps.

There are others in the cast who add to the quality of the movie. Richard Jenkins plays Pike's father who is also the District Attorney giving his usual fine performance. David Oyelowo plays an assistant district attorney admirably.

Werner Herzog, generally a producer and director, gives a surprisingly good performance as a chilling bad guy. Finally, maybe the highlight of the film, 81-year-old Robert Duvall appears near the end and comes close to stealing the film. He hasn't lost a thing.

This is a fun, slam bang action movie with lots of bad guys for Reacher to conquer all by himself, undoubtedly the first in a series. But as good an actor as Cruise is, he is not Jack Reacher. They need to find someone appropriate for the role.

"THIS IS 40"

GRADE: ***

Pete (Paul Rudd) and Debbie (Leslie Mann), a married couple audiences first met five years ago in "Knocked Up," aren't always 100 percent honest with each other. They aren't guilty of lying as much as they are of omitting - Pete eats an extra cupcake, Debbie enjoys an occasional cigarette, Pete misses a mortgage payment due to his floundering record company. Not all 'omissions' are created equal.

But their love runs deep, feels real, and even as they endlessly bicker and see their very different interests pulling them apart, it appears that bond, a connection that is not rational or explainable, will see them through it - not in a way that is predictable, but in a manner that says these people are right for each other, and smart and mature enough to figure out how to make it work.

"This is 40," from writer-director Judd Apatow, deals head-on with the issues of the transition from young adulthood to middle age, of marriage, of being a parent, of coming to the realization that responsibility is not something that will go away. And it does so in a way that is often hilarious and always honest.

It's a mature picture, something Apatow has been working toward throughout his career after spending time on TV in high school ("Freaks and Geeks") and college ("Undeclared"), and then in the movies dealing with a man having sex for the first time ("The 40-Year-Old Virgin"), pregnancy ("Knocked Up") and staring death in the eye at a relatively young age ("Funny People").

"This is 40" is a family affair for Apatow: Mann is his real-life wife, and their children, Maude and Iris Apatow (reprising their "Knocked Up" roles), play Pete and Debbie's kids, Sadie and Charlotte, respectively.

Stress is getting to both Pete and Debbie as they both hit the big 4-0 in the same week. Pete's financial troubles might force them to sell their house. He's pinning all his hopes on a new album by musician Graham Parker, who hasn't had a hit in decades. Debbie, who runs a clothing boutique, knows one of two employees, Jodi (Charlyne Yi) or Desi (a funny Megan Fox), has stolen $12,000 from her.

Pete also continues to give money to his father (Albert Brooks), while Debbie barely knows her dad (John Lithgow), who walked out on her when she was 8.

With their small roles, Apatow uses Brooks and Lithgow as secret weapons, while Jason Segel, also returning from "Knocked Up," provides a few good laughs as Debbie's personal trainer.

Visually, there is nothing to speak of here, but that is not what Apatow is about as a filmmaker. People, their lives and relationships interest him, and though most of us aren't as funny as his characters, he tells their stories with uncanny truth. He's reached a new level of authenticity with "This is 40," is his finest movie yet.

"THE HOBBIT: AN UNEXPECTED JOURNEY"

GRADE: ***

Fantasy fans hungry for a return to the 'Lord of the Rings' landscape can get their fill with this one, as director Peter Jackson (who helmed the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy) rekindles his Middle Earth magic in adapting the first part of J.R.R. Tolkien's "The Hobbit" for the big screen. Two other "Hobbit" films will follow in 2013 and 2014.

Those fond of the award-winning "Lord of the Rings" pictures will feel a sense of deja vu in watching "An Unexpected Journey," as cinematography, costuming, score and set design are all virtually identical, not to mention several cast members. And while "Journey" gets off to a slow start, the colorful characters, action sequences and unparalleled visual effects quickly help pick up the pace.

The Hobbit is set 60 years before The Lord of the Rings. It's centered upon Bilbo Baggins, uncle of The Lord of the Rings' hobbit hero, Frodo Baggins.

Bilbo Baggins (Martin Freeman, expertly cast) is a peaceful hobbit perfectly happy to remain in the quiet calm of the Shire. But that all changes when the wizard Gandalf (Ian McKellen, reprising his "Rings" role) arrives at Bilbo's abode with 13 dwarves in tow. Gandalf and the dwarves, led by the brave and stubborn Thorin Oakenshield, are planning a trek to the Lonely Mountain to retake their kingdom of Erebor from a vicious dragon named Smaug. Bilbo reluctantly agrees to tag along as the group's "burglar," and soon the crew is on the road to Erebor.

The quest proves a dangerous one as Bilbo, Gandalf and the dwarves run across three hungry trolls, a horde of nasty goblins and their leader, and other obstacles. Bilbo also meets the gangly creature Gollum (Andy Serkis) and finds the One Ring, a powerful treasure that plays an integral role in the "Lord of the Rings" films.

There is a paint-by-numbers feel to "Journey," since the groundwork was already well laid with "Lord of the Rings." Some scenes - such as a flashback battle scene involving Thorin and the dwarves - are incredibly similar to moments in "Rings."

The dwarves are a treat, though, especially Thorin (Richard Armitage), elder Balin (Ken Stott) and tattooed warrior Dwalin (Graham McTavish). And "Journey" introduces a host of interesting new characters, such as Gandalf's fellow wizard Radagast (Sylvester McCoy).

Freeman makes a wonderful Bilbo, perfectly mixing humor and heart, and McKellen serves up another terrific performance.

Like The Lord of the Rings, The Hobbit is being adapted into a trilogy, even though it's but a single Tolkien book. Not bothering to mention the obvious commercial motivation, Jackson cites Tolkien's extensive, published notes for The Hobbit as a resource and blueprint for the new trilogy.

About the Towns

SAME OLD, SAME OLD, NEW AGAIN

Please check your local "Daily Times Chronicle" for daily updates.

A little streaming, a little wrap (Tewksbury)- "Sean Czarniecki joined the Tewksbury Recycling Committee (TRC) in the fall of 2002," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"The chemical engineer volunteers his time to promote awareness for the town's recycling program and helps control tax increases in the town budget related to solid waste. Czarniecki is also known as 'the Numbers Guy' for his expertise in acquiring and organizing vital data for TRC-related projects."

As the holidays approached, Czarniecki spoke with the "Crier" about resourceful ways to recycle, offering reminders of Tewksbury's recycling policy.

He noted that items such as cardboard boxes (broken down to 2 ft. x 3 ft.), wrapping paper, and gift tags compose "the most significant waste stream to recycle in your home in terms of saving tax dollars."

"Czarniecki said, 'You pay for trash disposal by the ton. If you pull out all the paper and cardboard, it takes the volume of trash down significantly.'

"All wrapping paper can be recycled. 'Except for the foil kind,' Czarniecki said. 'Having a little tape on there (or a few ribbons and bows in the mix) is not a big deal.'

One can also dump the paper into the nearest school paper retriever bin. "The school will make some money and you don't have to worry about the paper flying around in front of your house."

Starting the week of January 7th, Christmas trees can be picked up curbside or brought to the DPW on 999 Whipple Road. Trees must be free of tinsel or trimmings, and should not be placed in a plastic bag. To schedule pick-up for bulky items or appliances, call Allied Waste: 800-442-9006.

Look for the Tewksbury Recycling Committee on Facebook, or visit: tewksbury.net/Pages/TewksburyMABComm/CO/trcindex.

Street talk (Woburn)- "Continuing its effort to incorporate every paved street in the city, the City Council will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, Feb. 5, to determine whether to accept 30 streets as official city roads," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Several city agencies, including the City Engineer's office, the City Clerk, and the City Solicitor, are trying to have as many streets accepted to increase the amount of highway funding from the state, which is based on the total length of roadway in the city.

"The designated streets are generally newer roads, or ones that have been otherwise overlooked in the past, and are technically private ways. The city accepted about two dozen streets earlier this month, but there was some confusion as residents who were notified of the public hearing thought there was going to be road construction or similar types of work taking place.

"The streets up for consideration by the council on Feb. 5 are: Belford Circle, Bradford Road, Briarwood Road, Burlwood Lane, Chandler Street, Columbus Road, Commonwealth Avenue, Emeline Street, Henry Avenue, Heritage Drive, Industrial Parkway, Katie Lane, Lake Circle, Lake Terrace, Laurel Street, Lydon Court, Morningside Drive, McDevitt Drive, Morningside Circle, Nason Terrace, Oak Knoll Drive, Ridgewood Lane, Stephanie Circle, Stevin Drive, Sylvanus Wood Lane, Tedesco Drive (formerly known as Temple Street), Tory Row, Westview Terrace, William Avenue, and Windsor Drive.

"The council also voted to amend the list of streets that was accepted at its Dec. 4 meeting, to reflect the accurate names of two of the roads. Kosciusko Street was originally and inaccurately accepted as 'Kosciusko Road,' while Battle March Way was initially accepted as

'Battlemarch Way.'

"We want to make it consistent," said City Council President Paul Denaro...."

-Park place(Reading)- "The Recreation Committee is reviewing suggestions and input received during a public hearing on a draft master plan for Sturges Park," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"We were very pleased with the turnout," said Recreation Director John Feudo. 'Folks seemed very interested in Sturges Park.'

"An early look at the plan shows a woodland trail, a new playground complete with tables, lights for a playfield, additional parking, a softball field, a basketball half-court, a tennis court, a soccer field and a walking trail...

"The Board of Selectmen has extended the expiration date for the ad hoc Sturges Park Planning Committee.

"Now that the Rec. Committee has approved the concept plan, we will work to finalize the plan for the Board of Selectmen's review sometime in February," said Feudo...."

trivia question? The players' initials are T.D.

Freshman G Connor Hellebuyck (Commerce, Mich.) earned his second straight shutout as UMass Lowell defeated No. 18 Harvard, 5-0, in a non-conference hockey clash at the Bright Hockey Center.

Hellebuyck stopped 30 shots while the River Hawk defense was equally impressive on both ends of the ice with three goals from defensemen, 21 blocked shots and five penalty kills, extending its streak to 13 straight and 19 in opponents last 20 opportunities. The victory follows a 2-0 win over Northeastern on Saturday, in which Hellebuyck stopped 25 shots.

Named the Hockey East Defensive Player of the Week, Hellebuyck is currently riding a goalless streak of 122 minutes, 45 seconds and last conceded 17:15 into the third period of the Nov. 30 loss at No. 2 New Hampshire (5-2).

UMass Lowell, which has scored seven first period goals this season, jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the opening period, the first goal 6:01 into the game on a wrist shot from the point by freshman D Dmitry Sinitsyn (Moscow, Russia).

Freshman D Christian Folin (Gothenberg, Sweden) had the original shot on the play and junior F Josh Holmstrom (Colorado Springs, Colo.) passed out the rebound to Sinitsyn to set up the goal.

The Crimson nearly equalized two minutes later when senior F Marshall Everson rattled the post off a saved shot.

Four seconds after Harvard's Luke Greiner was whistled for charging at 15:14, junior D Chad Ruhwedel (San Diego, Calif.) slapped home off the ensuing faceoff from JUNIOR JOE PENDENZA (WILMINGTON, MASS.), which ended a string of 23 power play opportunities without a goal.

Hellebuyck was at his best to keep Harvard off the scoresheet six minutes into the third period during a Crimson power play. Everson let fly from the right point, and senior F Connor Morrison redirected at the far post, eliciting a magnificent right-legged kick save from Hellebuyck.

McGrath nearly gave the River Hawks a 3-0 lead 11 minutes into the third period when he beat a defender down the left side and attempted a wrap-around shot, only to be agonizingly denied by the far post.

The third goal came, however, at 14:01 when sophomore D Jake Suter (Lac du Flanbeau, Wisc.) sent a slapshot - his first collegiate goal - from the right point off a pass from freshman Michael Colantone (Cave Creek, Ariz.).

UMass Lowell seized the momentum and added a pair of goals 1:42 apart late in the third period. Sophomore Scott Wilson (Oakville, Ont.) capitalized on a breakaway at 17:35 and beat goalie Raphael Girard with a backhand at the right post.

Pendenza capped the scoring on a 5-on-3 situation at 19:17 when he took a pass from senior F Riley Wetmore (Swanton, Vt.) at the right circle and rifled home.

Junior Kevin Peter (North Attleboro, Mass.) won the hammer throw and led three teammates who won individual titles at the Brandeis University Reggie Poyau Track & Field Invitational at the Gosman Sports Center.

UMass Lowell scored 125 points and placed second behind Stonehill, which compiled 141 points. Bentley finished third (77) and was followed by Emmanuel College (66) and the host Judges (55).

The invitational drew eight Division II and III colleges.

Peter captured the hammer throw with a distance of 54 feet, 5.5 inches and led three River Hawks in the top four places. Freshman Zach Nardone (Peabody, Mass.) placed third with a distance of 46' 10.25" while junior Devin O'Neil (Braintree, Mass.) placed fourth with an effort of 46' 6.25".

Sophomore Garrett King (Amesbury, Mass.) won the pole vault as he cleared 13' 11.25" to edge Stonehill's Luke Byrnes, who cleared the same height but on more chances. SOPHOMORE RICHARD KIRBY (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) placed fourth, clearing 12' 11.5".

Freshman Nick Staub (Dracut, Mass.) and sophomore Joe Ciriagliaro each emerged with titles. Staub captured the shot put with a toss of 47' 2.5" and led three River Hawks in the top five places as O'Neil took fourth (45' 9.25") and Nardone fifth (44' 6.75").

Ciriagliaro won the 800 meters with a time of 1:59.83.

A handful of UMass Lowell athletes earned runner-up honors, led by sophomore Kevin Johnston (Amesbury, Mass.) in the 200 meters with a time of 23.10 seconds. Additionally, sophomore Patrick Greaney (Mansfield, Mass.) took second in the long jump with a distance of 21' 4.75". Junior Keith Lewis (Nashua, N.H.) placed fourth with a leap of 19' 10.25".

Lewis also took third in the high jump, clearing 6' 3.5", leading teammates Jake Stelling (Amesbury, Mass.), who placed fourth with a height of 6' 1.5"; and freshman Oluwatoni Onekeku (Fitchburg, Mass.) fifth with the same height but on more chances.

Lewis and Kirby also ran a leg on UMass Lowell's 4X400 meter relay team which took second in 3:30.11. Joining them was sophomore Tyler Houldsworth (Exeter, N.H.) and JUNIOR CAMERON MITCHELL (WAKEFIELD, MASS.).

Mitchell, Lewis and Houldsworth also placed third-through-fifth in the 55 meter hurdles. Mitchell finished with a time of 7.92 seconds while Lewis was right behind in 8.12 and Houldsworth in 8.29.

In other events, junior Kyle Kilduff (Mansfield, Mass.) was the runner-up in the 600 meters (1:25.69) while sophomore Oluwadam Dada (Lowell, Mass.) placed fifth in the triple jump (40' 4.75").

representing the United States on the international competition circuit, as well as performing their first demonstration in Danville, Virginia. In 1961, the Department of Defense announced that the STRAC team would become the United States Army Parachute Team.

By 1962, the team earned the nickname the "Golden Knights" on the competition field of battle. Golden, signifying the gold medals the team had won; Knights, proving that they were world champions and alluding to the fact that the Team had "conquered the skies." The Golden Knights continue to show audiences around the world why they are the world's best parachute team and are one of only three DoD sanctioned aerial demonstration teams, along with the US Navy Blue Angels and the US Air Force Thunderbirds.

The team's mission today is to support the U.S. Army's recruiting and public relations efforts. To accomplish this, the Golden Knights conduct parachute demonstrations, tandems and compete nationally and internationally in order to create a greater propensity to serve in the Army by helping connect America's people with America's Army.

On order, the Team provides direct support to special mission and special operations units with military free fall training.

Over the last 53 years, the United States Army Parachute Team has created hundreds of millions of positive impressions for the Army by conducting over 16,000 shows in 50 states and 48 countries, reaching an average of 60,000 people per show, averaging over 30 million impressions annually.

The team conducts over 850 tandems each year and has jumped with distinguished centers of influence from Former President George H.W. Bush to Bill Murray and Chuck Norris.

The team domination of national and international competitions has already earned the U.S. Army an impressive 2,148 Gold; 1,117 Silver; and 693 Bronze Medals, as well as, having broken 348 world records. In order to support this, the team's Aviation Detachment flies over 1,870 hours and conducts over 2,900 sorties annually.

The United States Army Parachute Team consists of only 89 Soldiers and civilians divided into several sections: Black & Gold Demonstration Teams; Tandem Team; Competition Team (8-Way, 4-

Stay healthy when the sick season of sneezes and sniffles arrives

The cold weather brings with it a season of smiles, the first snowfalls and, unfortunately, cold and flu outbreaks. While everyone else is suffering, there are ways you can make it through the season unscathed.

It is estimated that a billion people across North America will succumb to the cold virus this year, says Medline. Considering there is no cure for cold and flu viruses, prevention remains a person's best option at fending off cold and flu. There are different precautions to take that can help protect you against getting sick or at least reduce the frequency and severity with which cold and flu strikes.

Although there is no magic pill to take that will prevent you from catching a cold or the flu, there are ways to improve your odds.

* Wash your hands the right way. Washing your hands frequently remains the single-best way to keep viruses and bacteria that can make you sick from infiltrating the body. Washing your hands for at least 20 seconds can effectively remove any dirt, grime and invisible invaders.

* Skip antibacterial products. Because colds and the flu are the result of viruses, which are different in behavior and structure from bacteria, they will not be killed off with the use of antibacterial products. What you may succeed in doing is killing off any beneficial bacteria on your hands as well as creating resistant bacteria that form with over-use of antibiotics and antibacterial products.

* Get the flu shot. There is no vaccination to prevent the common cold, but there are immunizations that can help reduce your risk of getting the flu or help minimize its severity. Doctors' offices, clinics and even pharmacies all offer annual flu shots.

* Use sanitizer on items around the house. Surfaces that are frequently touched by all members of the household should be wiped down with a disinfectant product. A bleach-and-water solution is an effective sanitizer. Surfaces to sanitize include phones, doorknobs, light switches, remote controls, computer keyboards, faucets, toys, and countertops.

* Avoid sick people. KidsHealth.org states that flu viruses and colds can travel up to 12 feet (from a sneeze or cough). Steer clear of anyone exhibiting symptoms, especially someone who is frequently sneezing or coughing. Parents should keep children home from school if they are sick. Do so until symptoms subside so as not to infect others.

* Use a sanitizer product. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention advise that when hand-washing is not readily available, a good way to kill germs is to use an alcohol-based sanitizer lotion. While not as effective as washing hands in warm, soapy water, sanitizing products can be used in a pinch while you're on the go.

* Cough into your sleeve. Rather than coughing or sneezing into your hands, do so into the crook of your elbow since this area rarely touches anything else.

* Skip the buffet lunch. Buffet-style offerings are convenient and offer variety, but they are also a breeding ground for illnesses. These foods may have been sneezed or coughed on. Also, the serving spoons have been touched by dozens of people.

There are many different ways to avoid getting a cold or the flu this season. Diligence is one of the keys to staying germ-free.

How to make healthy seafood choices

Seafood has long been seen as a healthy addition to a person's diet. Easily digestible and rich in high-quality protein that provides a mix of essential amino acids, seafood can play an integral role in a healthy diet.

As healthy as seafood can be, the Natural Resources Defense Council notes that eating fish is not always healthy for individuals or the environment. Contaminated fish can be unhealthy, and seafood that has been overfished can result in long-term issues for oceans and marine life. Because there are extenuating circumstances with regard to consuming seafood, the NRDC offers the following information to seafood-loving consumers so they can be certain they're making the healthiest and most eco-friendly choices when buying seafood.

* Choose smaller fish. Smaller marine animals, including squid, oysters, mackerel, mussels and even sardines, are more plentiful. In addition, smaller fish contain less mercury, which is more beneficial to your health.

* It's important to know where fish are coming from. The health of a species may depend on where the species is from. Fish caught in sustainable ways are typically healthy for both consumers and the environment. The NRDC recommends consumers use the Monterey Bay Aquarium's Seafood Watch guide (www.montereybayaquarium.org) to learn about the various regions and which provide the most sustainable choices.

* It's important to know how your fish was caught. In addition to where a fish is from, how it was caught should also be an important consideration for consumers. Hook-and-line fishing and fish caught with pots and traps are considered the most eco-friendly methods of fishing. Longline fishing, which requires the use of long fishing lines with thousands of hooks that can kill both sea turtles and birds, can be very harmful to marine life. In addition, the NRDC considers bottom trawlers, which are nets that can cut the ocean floor and kill various types of marine life, including sea urchins, coral dolphins and whales, especially harmful to the environment and marine life.

* Choose wild fish. The NRDC notes the concerns about the environmental impact of fish farming, advising consumers to purchase wild-caught fish instead.

* Eat local. Local varieties of fish that haven't been depleted in local waters are more eco-friendly than fish from another part of the country or world. That's because fresh fish must be transported through the air, which requires substantial amounts of energy.

More information about choosing seafood that is healthy for consumers as well as the environment is available at www.nrdc.org.

How to reduce noise in the home

Noise in a home is a problem that can affect just about anyone. Noise can occur inside or be the product of noisy situations outside of the home. Eventually these sounds can try a homeowner's patience, but there are various ways to cope with noise.

padding underneath will absorb sounds, including foot-falls on floors above. Hanging pictures on the wall and using drapery on windows also can absorb sound and prevent it from bouncing off of bare walls.

used around electrical outlets.

* Reduce the human scope of noise. One of the first steps to take is reducing the amount of noise generated by people inside of the house. If video games are noisy, encourage children to wear headphones so the entire household is not subjected to the sounds of the game. Set limits on the volume of the television and try to keep only one set on at a given time in the house, particularly if televisions are located in rooms where doors cannot be closed to block the sound. People can also lower their speaking voices inside of the house.

* Change windows. If sounds are coming from outside, it might be worth the investment to upgrade windows, although this can prove costly. Many homeowners with outdoor noise issues install triple-paned windows, which reduce sound and also provide significant energy savings. Changing the window frames is another option. Metal frames will transmit sound better than wood, fiberglass or vinyl.

* Install door sweeps. A door sweep is not only effective at preventing drafts, but sweeps can prevent sounds from coming out as well.

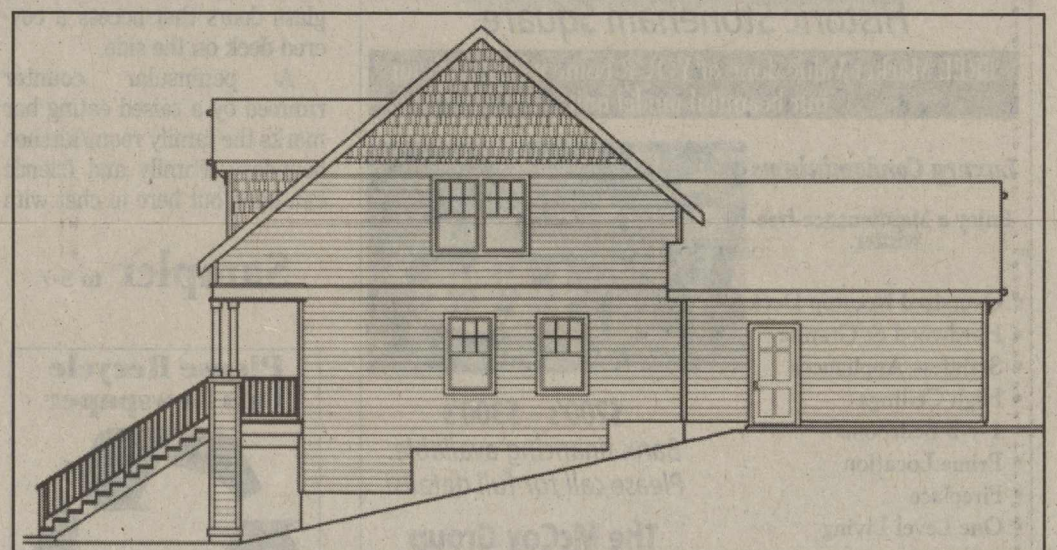

* Use sound-dampening furnishings. There are many benefits to having hardwood flooring throughout a home, including its beauty. But hardwood flooring could reflect sound waves and cause them to echo around the house. Area rugs will do some to muffle the sound, but carpeting is a good method of sound insulation. The carpeting and the

* Check where drywall is not installed flush with the floor surface. Remove the base molding and you might find an inch gap from the floor where sound can escape. You can reduce noise by using a spray foam insulation in this area and then replacing the molding. A similar tactic can be

* Add additional insulation. Thicker walls make it hard for sound to travel throughout a home. You also can install a sound-stopping wallboard over existing drywall. Putting more insulation in the attic can reduce weather sounds generated from rain falling on the roof.

* Plant sound-buffering trees and shrubs. For sounds that are generated outdoors, a sound bluff, like a line of thick bushes, can dull sound and provide added privacy.

This Week's Sampler: The Fillmore

Fillmore is evocative of past farm houses

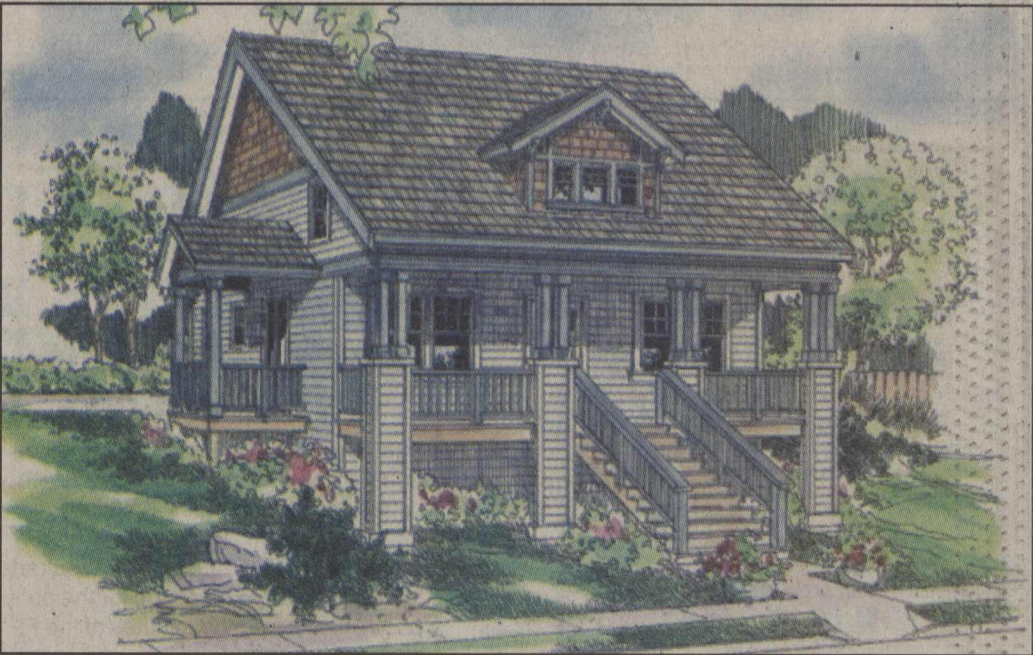

The Fillmore puts the viewer in mind of yesteryear farmhouses. Lap siding helps create that impression, as do the wide front porch, Craftsman windows, and front-facing, gabled dormer.

This plan is designed for a lot that slopes up at the rear and offers an alley access for the garage. A charming wooden stairway leads up to the railed front porch, which is on the main floor level.

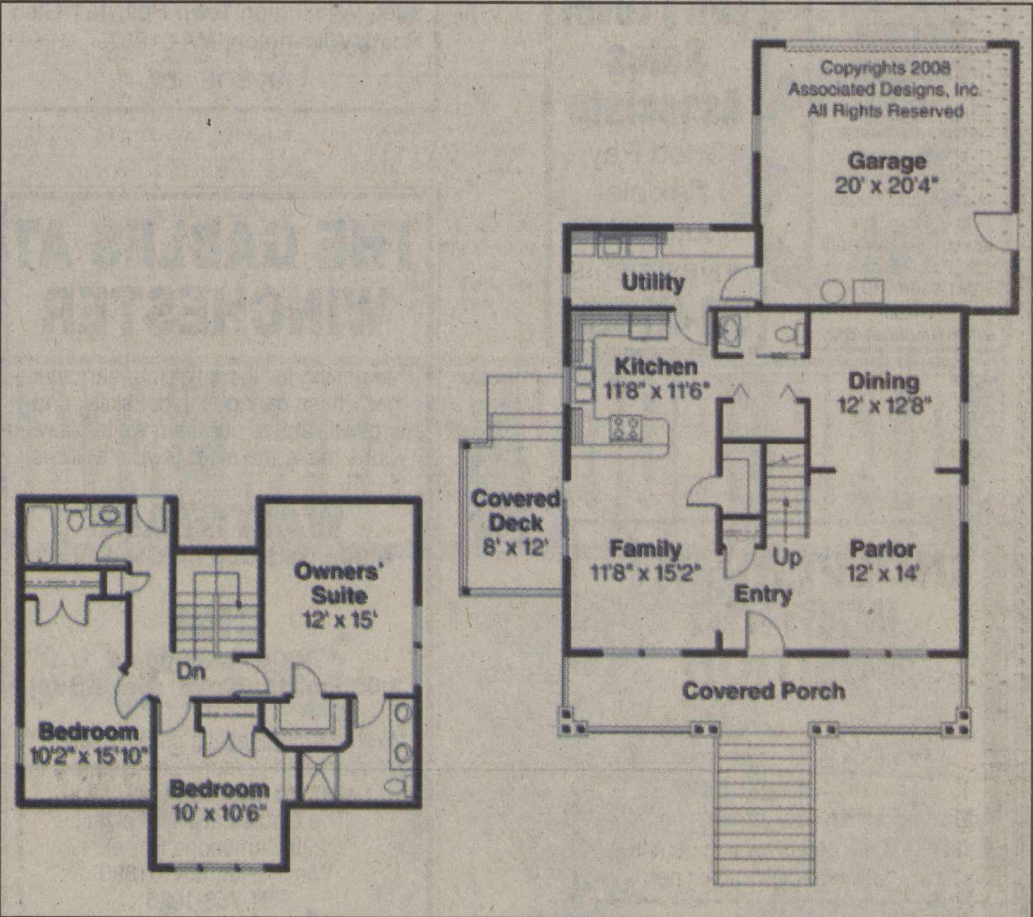

Inside, another stairway directly ahead leads up to the sleeping areas, clustered together on the second floor. On the right, the entry is open to a parlor, which links with the dining room at the rear.

To the left of the entry, a cased opening reveals the large, bright family room that will quite likely be the most used gathering space. Muted natural light washes into this area from two sides: through Craftsman windows that face the street, and the wide sliding glass doors that access a covered deck on the side.

A peninsular counter rimmed by a raised eating bar marks the family room/kitchen boundary. Family and friends can hang out here to chat with
